PUBLIC WORKS ISSUE DELAYED BY ROOSEVELT

President Decides Not to Press at Once for Bonds Program.

IS AGAINST RECESS UNTIL JOB IS DONE

Step-by-Step Banking Action Due; Budget Balancing Is Immediate Task.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

With a view to stabilizing further the national financial situation now so happily righting itself, President Roosevelt has determined not to press immediately any plan for a $500,000,000 Federal bond issue for an expanded public works program.

Urgent relief measures on a smaller scale will be presented to Congress next week, but it is hoped that these will not involve either increased appropriations or new bond issues. The public works plan and a more elaborate relief measure still are in working in the administrative branch, but several other legislative matters are ranked ahead of them in the President's legislative program.

Coincident with these developments yesterday, it was learned the President now definitely favors keeping Congress continuously in session until the complete legislative program can be enacted. This arrangement is widely favored on Capitol Hill, as against a month's recess to begin in a week or ten days.

Banking Legislation.

The President also believes it might be well not to attempt any sweeping and all-inclusive banking reform through a single measure, but that the strengthening of the banking structure might best be accomplished by piecemeal legislation aimed at particular weakness.

There will be no general banking reorganization measure in the special session under the President's present plan. This was widely interpreted as indicating that the Glass bill would not be written into law at once in its entirety. It appears probable that as the step-by-step banking program advances, sections will be taken from the Glass bill and enacted separately.

Mr. Roosevelt's broad plan is to direct these banking measures toward the elimination of some of the more flagrant weaknesses and abuses of the recent past. He inclines to the view that the question of investment affiliates of national banks ranks high in the list of essential problems to be dealt with immediately.

Railroad Action Due.

Extortionist Is Caught On Wheat King's Estate

Evanston, Ill., March 17 (U.P.).—Axel Peterson, 54-year-old unemployed landscape gardener, confessed tonight, Evanston police said, that he attempted to extort $50,000 by writing threatening letters to Mrs. James A. Patten, widow of the Chicago "wheat king."

Arrested when he wandered into an elaborate net of burglar alarms set about the Patten estate, Peterson admitted, authorities declared, that he wrote the widow five letters during the past two weeks, promising "something terrible" would happen to her unless the money was paid.

28th Wedding Year Marked By Roosevelts

(Associated Press.)

Both President and Mrs. Roosevelt were so busy yesterday they had to await the dinner hour to celebrate their twenty-eighth wedding anniversary.

The Chief Executive, after clearing away Cabinet meeting, press conference and many other matters, went from his offices to Mrs. Roosevelt's "at home" at 5:30 p. m., the first time he had seen her during the day.

She had 150 guests in for tea, and Roosevelt ian relatives were arriving by various trains to join in the strictly "family party" of the evening.

The tea-time guests got to see the gorgeous floral gifts that helped make the day memorable for the Roosevelts.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt, with Theodore Roosevelt, then President, giving the bride away, were married in front of a shower bouquet of 450 pink roses, and scores of their friends had chosen roses to remind them of the event.

"More flowers than I have ever seen on the second floor of the White House before" was the description given by one visitor.

"One bouquet that everybody noticed was of enormous roses with stems said to be actually 5½ feet long."

Included in the family party last night was the President's mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt; Anna Dall, daughter of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, and her husband, Curtis Dall; Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, wife of their son, who will soon join her husband in the West, and several other relatives who were guests at the wedding in 1905.

ALEXANDRIAN SHOOTS TWO AND TAKES LIFE

Woman and Son Wounded by Roomer in House; Motive Unknown.

Tanner Tregor, 46, a former Alexandria policeman, late last night shot and seriously wounded Mrs. Harriett Brewer, 45, and her son, Ross Brewer, 22, and then killed himself with his own gun.

The shooting occurred at the Brewer home at 329 North Henry street, Alexandria, where Tregor is reported to have been living. Late last night police reported that they had been unable to determine the exact cause of the triple shooting. It was thought that the man may have become suddenly demented or was actuated by a jealous rage.

Mrs. Brewer was shot in the neck and in the left arm, but her condition was not considered critical. Her son was shot once in the left arm. Both were treated at Alexandria Hospital.

Couple, Both Past 80, Found Slain at Home

Oakdale, Pa., March 17 (A.P.).—Frank Koslak and his wife, both more than 80 years old, were found slain in their home near Oakdale today.

Neighbors, who had not seen the aged couple for several days, entered the house and discovered the bodies. They had been killed with a pick and an ice pick. The house was ransacked, leading police to believe the couple had been slain by robbers.

Six European Tax Authorities Arrive

Will Draft Treaty to Halt Double Levies Across Boundaries.

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—Six European tax experts comprising the subcommittee on allocation of the fiscal committee of the League of Nations arrived today to draft a treaty to prevent double taxation of enterprises doing business in two or more countries.

They were Sir Percy Thompson, Briton; Dr. Herbert Dorn, German; Dr. Hans Blau, Swiss; Herve Le Roy, French; Henri Boissard, secretary, and Paul Deperon, assistant secretary of the subcommittee.

The subcommittee was invited to meet in the United States by Silas H. Strawn, former president of th. U. S. Chamber of Commerce. Meetings will be held here and in Washington.

Syracuse Wage Slash Dispute Closes Movies

Syracuse, N. Y., March 17 (A.P.).—Syracuse's six large downtown motion picture theaters closed their doors at the end of the last showings last night, after failure to come to an agreement over wage reductions with affiliated theatrical unions.

A statement by the managers said they had asked that all employes take a 25 per cent pay reduction. Neighborhood theaters remained open.

BIG GAIN SHOWN IN COLLECTIONS OF INCOME LEVY

March Rise $2,000,000 Despite Bank Recess and Extension.

VETERANS AWARDS WILL BE HELD BACK

(Associated Press.)

Bright news issued from the Treasury yesterday. New income tax collections through March 15 jumped above those of last year, holding some promise of increased revenue to combine with new economy bill in striving for a balanced budget.

The new, high income rates netted $34,082,240 for the first two weeks of March, including $13,659,901 for March 15 itself. These figures compared with $32,052,618 and $12,648,765 a year ago, despite the bank holiday and the order extending the deadline for returns to March 31.

This first indication of better income for the Treasury arrived while the Capital waited for final formalities to make the $500,000,000 economy bill law. With its signature yesterday by Speaker Rainey, there remained only a like formality, when the Senate meets again Monday, on the part of Vice President Garner, before President Roosevelt's own signature would put it on the statute books.

Awards Held Back.

Looking ahead, the Veterans' Administration instructed all field stations to discontinue making awards in pending cases until the President issues instructions as to the extent of economies he wishes effected. The new law will leave him free to trim outlays for veterans extensively.

Meanwhile, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, made public a letter to the President, following a recent conference with him, saying he had hoped the bill's provisions for slashing Federal salaries could have been averted.

The new income tax figures when combined into the total collected since July 1 last, showed a loss instead of gain, as everything preceding March was under the old, lower tax rates. The period showed only $417,414,269 compared with collections of $690,173,961 for the same time the year before.

For the fiscal year, the expenditures of the Government at the close of business March 15 had reached a total of $2,738,654,065 while the Government's income amounted to $1,321,992,185, leaving a deficit of $1,416,661,879 which compared with a deficit of $1,876,463,843 for the corresponding period of the previous year.

Estimates Not Available.

Officials could not estimate how far the incoming tax would cut down the deficit, since after the rush to pay on March 15 when the banks reopened, orders were sent to the collectors that the Treasury had extended the time for filing the returns from midnight, March 15, until midnight, March 31.

But the payments received showed that the higher rates imposed in the new tax law were bringing in more than the old law did a year ago.

While the income taxes went up, miscellaneous taxes imposed in the billion dollar tax bill continued to bring in greater receipts than a year ago, but not in the amount hoped for when the bill was passed. Since last July 1 these levies have brought in $522,546,264 as compared with $363,720,253 in the same period of the previous year.

Jacob Mathay Dies Of Bullet in Head

Leader in Pennsylvania House Had Complained of Losing Sleep.

Philadelphia, March 17 (A.P.).—Jacob Mathay, 48, chairman of the ways and means committee of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives, was found dead in his home today with a bullet wound behind his right ear.

Coroner Fred Schwarz said the death was reported to him as accidental.

G. Harry Ditter, who shared a law office with Mathay, said that the State representative had suffered extremely from nervousness recently and had never fully recovered from the effects of an automobile accident more than two years ago. He said also that Mathay had complained of being unable to sleep. Mathay is survived by his wife and a daughter.

Hollywood, March 17 (U.P.).—Joan Crawford, film star, announced her separation tonight from Douglas Fairbanks, jr., a day after her actor-husband was named in a $50,000 alienation of affections suit. Miss Crawford, conferring with her attorneys, said she will issue a statement later.

A marital rift between the two has been repeatedly rumored in the film colony, but always was denied by them.

DISTRICT EMPLOYE IS FOUND LIFELESS

Miss Brodhead, Clerk in Commissioners' Office, Held Heart Victim.

Miss Kathryn Van White Brodhead, 56 years old, record clerk in the office of the District Commissioners, was found dead last night in her apartment at 3100 Connecticut avenue northwest by a friend, Clarence E. Fisher, 1839 R street northwest. While it was believed that she died as the result of a heart attack, Dr. A. Magruder McDonald, District coroner, ordered the body removed to the District Morgue pending further investigation.

Miss Brodhead was found on the floor of her bedroom, clad in her nightclothes, a distance of several feet from her bed. A sheet was drawn over her. A Wednesday afternoon paper beside her bed at first led police to believe that she had died Wednesday, but it later was determined that she had paid her rent Thursday. It is believed that she suffered a heart attack in the night.

Mr. Fisher called Dr. J. O. Dolan, of the same apartment house, who pronounced Miss Brodhead dead. Police said they had determined that she suffered from heart trouble. According to Daniel E. Garges, secretary to the Board of District Commissioners, Miss Brodhead had not been to her work in his office for several days.

HOUSE REJECTS PLEA FOR QUICK BANKING ACTION

President Wanted Bill to Aid Non-Reserve Passed at Once.

DISCUSSION MONDAY FINALLY PROMISED

(Associated Press.)

Despite word that President Roosevelt wanted the measure passed immediately, a restive House yesterday balked at consideration of a bill to relieve banks outside the Federal Reserve system, but agreed to take it up Monday with quick passage in prospect.

Chairman Steagall of the House Banking Committee, said the bill extended to banks not members of the Federal Reserve the privileges of the emergency banking bill.

"President Roosevelt wants it passed this afternoon," he said.

Snell, the Republican leader, was on his feet immediately with a reminder that several bills had gone through lately with little time to study them and said that since the Senate was in recess nothing was to be gained by passing the measure yesterday.

Steagall Plea for Approval.

Steagall said approval yesterday would let the people know that an "injustice" was to be corrected, but Beedy (Republican), Maine), a member of Steagall's committee, said the committee itself had no time to know what the bill contained.

"Nobody wants to give relief to State banks more than I," he said, "but there is doubt as to whether this bill accomplishes its purposes. No Republican member of the committee knew anything about it until half an hour ago."

"I'll say the President, the Federal Reserve Board, the Treasury and other experts have agreed that the language is clear," Steagall replied.

Democrats Decry Haste.

Beedy, however, objected to the unanimous consent required for consideration. Then Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, the majority leader, secured the agreement to have the bill taken up the first thing Monday.

Democrats joined in Beedy's complaint that House members had not had time to inform themselves on the bill. Representative Fuller (Democrat), Arkansas, told Steagall:

"By your explanation, you show you don't know what is in it yourself."

During Senate consideration of the emergency banking bill there was a complaint that its benefits would not go to nonmember banks, expressed by Senator Long (Democrat), Louisiana, and others.

Later, however, a bill by Senator Robinson (Democrat), Arkansas, was enacted to take care of such banks. The Steagall bill is a substitute for that measure. It authorizes nonmember banks and trust companies to borrow from Federal Reserve Banks on time or demand notes and makes the notes eligible for the issue of Federal Reserve Bank currency.

Warrants Issued for 17 Making 1,000 Quit Jobs

Burlington, N. C., March 17 (A.P.).—Bench warrants for 17 men who participated in the forceful ousting of about 1,000 textile workers from their posts in three mills here Tuesday were given officers for service today while the leader of the group made bond following his arrest.

Bates Is Reappointed Director of Prisons

Official Hoover Named Retained Because of Able Service.

(Associated Press.)

Attorney General Cummings yesterday reappointed Sanford Bates director of prisons of the Department of Justice, a position he held under the Hoover administration.

Bates has directed the expansion of the prison system of the Government and the construction of new prisons in different sections of the country and put into effect new methods of handling Federal prisoners. He came to the Department of Justice from Massachusetts, where he had gained a reputation as one of the outstanding prison officials of the country.

The announcement said:

"Attorney General Cummings announced today that Sanford Bates, director of the Bureau of Prisons of the Department of Justice, has consented to accept a reappointment to that post. Attorney General Cummings expressed great satisfaction at Mr. Bates' decision to carry on work of the Bureau of Prisons, which has been so ably administered by Mr. Bates in the last four years, and he considered the department and the people of this country fortunate in being able to retain the services of so competent an official."

HARMONY ON BEER FORECAST MONDAY

(Associated Press.)

With the House insisting on 3.2 per cent beer and the Senate standing for an alcoholic limitation of 3.05, the Cullen beer bill last night was in the conference stage with a quick compromise predicted.

Nothing could be done formally until Monday, because the Senate was in adjournment until then, and had yet to appoint its conference managers. However, action was planned that would get the measure to the White House by Monday night.

President Roosevelt is ready to sign the bill at once. Fifteen days after his signature is placed upon it, the measure will become operative. The estimated Federal Revenue from the bill's tax of $5 a barrel is $150,000,000 a year.

In addition to the difference on alcoholic content, disagreemnts on two other Senate amendments must be composed. The first of these would prohibit sale of the legalized beverage to persons under 16. The second would legalize wine of 3.05 alcoholic content. California's vintners have raised strenuous objection to the letter, contending that the production of such wine is unfeasible.

To expedite matters a plan was in the making for the House conferees, already designated by Speaker Rainey, to meet informally over the week-end with senators who will be formally appointed to the conference on Monday.

In that way an agreement could be worked out and voted upon immediately after the senatorial conferees have been named. Behind this plan was Representative Cullen (Democrat), New York, the author of the bill.

Running into unexpected opposition to their first move to have the House reject the Senate amendments, Speaker Rainey and the bill's proponents resorted to drastic procedure to send the bill to conference.

The opposition, led by Representatives Tarver (Democrat), Georgia, and Blanton (Democrat), Texas, crumbled when Representative O'Connor (Democrat), New York, was successful in having the House adopt procedure approved by the powerful Rules Committee.

Speaker Rainey appointed as conferees Doughton, of North Carolina; Cullen, McCormack, of Massachusetts, Democrats; Treadway, of Massachusetts, and Watson, of Pennsylvania, Republicans.

Army Student Pilot Dies in Night Crash

Comfort, Tex., March 17 (A.P.).—The body of Charles D. Rogers, Army student pilot at Kelly Field, who crashed during the night, was found today on a ranch 15 miles southwest of Comfort. His home was in Asheville, N. C.

Army planes from San Antonio located the wreckage of Rogers' plane after a search of several hours, but there was no landing place near, and searching parties had to be sent out on foot. After walking four hours the parties found both the plane and body, both burned badly.

Cadet L. S. Pulwider, who left the home port during the night with Rogers on solo night flying missions, made a forced landing in a field near Willow City in Gillespie County. He was injured slightly.

CASHIER KILLS SELF SO BANK CAN REOPEN

Institution Holds $50,000 Insurance Policy on Life; His Accounts Intact.

New Wilmington, Pa., March 17 (A.P.).—Howell T. Getty, 58, cashier of the First National Bank of New Wilmington, Pa., killed himself late today, indicating in a note he was ending his life so the bank could collect a $50,000 insurance policy.

State police, investigating the suicide, said Getty left the bank, following a meeting of the board of directors, and drove some distance from the city, parking by an open field.

Officers said they found the banker's body about 15 feet from the roadside—a bullet in his right temple. They found his hat, glasses and the note, written on bank stationery, on the seat of his abandoned car.

The message read:

"The $50,000 insurance policy which the bank holds on my life will pay the depreciation on the bond account and allow the bank to reopen."

The institution, closed during the banking holiday, opened this week on a restricted basis and was expected to resume full business on Monday.

C. M. Mercer, president of the bank, said there was no shortage in Getty's accounts.

The bank's last statement, as of December 31, 1932, showed assets of $1,109,463, and deposits of $932,696.

Harry Hays Morgan Seriously Ill Abroad

London (Saturday), March 18 (A. P.).—Harry Hays Morgan, former United States Consul General at Brussels and Buenos Aires, was seriously ill today at the home of his daughter, Lady Furness, in Hampstead.

Harry Hays Morgan at various times was the representative of the United States Food Administration Board in Cuba and Trade Commissioner in Belgium.

Willebrandt Libel Action Is Dropped

Other Defendants Must Face Court in Suit of Former Dry Agent.

Named as a defendant in a $200,000 damage suit for libel in August, 1930, Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former Assistant Attorney General in charge of prohibition, yesterday was cleared of liability when Gus O. Nations, former prohibition official of St. Louis, Mo., dropped the suit insofar as she was concerned.

The remaining defendants, David Lawrence, H. R. Baukhage and the Current News Features, still are to face a jury.

Nations' suit was based on articles written by Mrs. Willebrandt on "The Inside of Prohibition" shortly after she resigned her position in the Government service to take up the practice of law. In her articles, which were sent out through the Current News Features, were statements that Mr. Nations took exception to. His suit asked that he be compensated for the alleged libelous statements. The action yesterday was taken at the instigation of the complainant.

AUDITORS HUNT FOR SHORTAGES IN PARK SAVINGS

$1,500,000 Lack Is Held Apparent by Officials in Investigation.

STUNZ NOTE SAID TO HAVE ABSOLVED ALL

Justice Department Working With Treasury in Quiz; Suicide Linked.

The accounts of the Park Savings Bank, which show an apparent shortage of $1,500,000, are the subject of close scrutiny by officials of the Treasury Department and the Department of Justice, The Post learned authoritatively early today.

Before Robert S. Stunz, 45 years old, executive vice president and director of the bank, committed suicide on Tuesday, he left a note exonerating other employes and officials of the bank of any wrongdoing, The Post also learned.

One high Government official said the note, "in a general way, exonerated others of any wrongdoing." The note was not found by the police who investigated the suicide.

Justice Department Probe.

The Department of Justice, which does not ordinarily enter a bank examination unless there are irregularities shown, had one of its operatives at the bank less than two days after the suicide of the former executive vice president, it was learned.

That some definite statement as to the suspected irregularities would soon be made by Acting Comptroller of the Currency F. G. Awalt was indicated by an official connected with the Department of Justice.

The note which was left by Stunz is understood to have been left to other officials of the bank. The headquarters detectives who investigated the suicide made a thorough search of his home, but found no explanation for his suicide.

Stunz killed himself by firing two bullets into his head while he was in the basement of his home, 1150 Kalmia road northwest. The suicide occurred on Tuesday, a few hours before Richard L. Hargreaves was named by Acting Comptroller Awalt as conservator of the bank. Mr. Hargreaves is a former official of the examining division in the office of the comptroller.

Examiner Is Silent.

The supposed discrepancy, it is understood, was uncovered during an examination of the bank's assets which was undertaken when the conservator was placed in charge of the institution's affairs.

I. I. Chorpening, chief bank examiner of the Fifth Federal Reserve District, which includes the Capital, declined to make any statement when questioned regarding the reported shortage.

Garcia Is Accused For Post Article

Former Cuba Consul Here Charged With Writing "Injurious Letter."

Havana, March 17 (A.P.).—A Havana court of first instance today filed criminal charges against Orestes Garcia, former Cuban Consul in Washington, accusing him of having published in The Washington Post an "injurious and defamatory letter against the Cuban government."

The indictment set forth that Garcia had been consul in Washington until two months ago, when reductions in the state department budget deprived him of his position, without ever having filed any complaint against the government. He "repeatedly" asked Cuban Ambassador Cintas to have him reinstated, the indictment said, and thereafter had the letter inserted.

PASSAGE OF QUAKE RELIEF IS FORECAST

(Associated Press.)

Early final enactment of earthquake relief legislation for southern California was predicted last night after the House passed, 218 to 152, a resolution to provide Reconstruction Corporation loans for rehabilitation.

Senator McAdoo (Democrat), California, sponsor of a measure passed by the Senate, appropriating $5,000,000 for direct relief, said that while differences between House and Senate bills would have to be adjusted, "early action is expected when Congress reconvenes Monday next."

In approving the measure, as revised by its Appropriations Committee, the House reversed an earlier action to send it back to committee. Running into stiff opposition, the relief resolution was rejected first on a standing vote of 144 to 97. Representative Lea (Democrat), California, however, forced a roll call vote, upon which the House turned an about face.

The House measure as it now stands provides that the Reconstruction Corporation make loans for rehabilitation in the stricken area around Long Beach, but makes no appropriations for direct relief.

Chairman Buchanan wrote in the committee's report to the House that the Red Cross had informed the committee it was providing adequate relief and that "the committee feels that there is no present need for the Federal Government to make a direct appropriation for the immediate necessities of life."

Southern Pacific Seeking $22,000,000

(Associated Press.)

The Southern Pacific Co. yesterday asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to authorize it to borrow $22,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

This is the first application for a loan made by the Southern Pacific Co. itself. The St. Louis Southwestern Railway, a subsidiary, has obtained approximately $18,000,000 from the corporation.

The Southern Pacific would use the money it asks to pay maturing bonds and equipment trust obligations, meet interest on bonds and equipment trust obligations and pay other "corporate requirements." The security offered is the company's promissory note.

U. S. Begins Issuing Farmer Loan Checks

Dr. C. W. Warburton, in charge of the crop production loan organization for the Secretary of Agriculture, has announced that the issuance of checks to farmers for 1933 loans began at all field offices yesterday. Funds for the loans were made available late Thursday by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Congress appropriated $90,000,000 for 1933 crop production loans.

The loan regulations limit the sum that any one farmer can borrow to $300 and require that he reduce his acreage of cash crops 30 per cent under last year, except within specified minimum limits. The loans are payable on or before October 31, 1933, and interest is charged at 5½ per cent.

Five Southern Railways To Cut Passenger Fare

(United Press.)

Five railroads were authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday to reduce passenger fares in the South for the next six months. The commission permitted the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway, Mobile & Ohio Railroad, Atlanta & West Point Railroad and the Western Railway of Alabama to establish on ten days' notice reduced fares on coach and Pullman passenger rates.

The roads will put into effect a rate of 2 cents a mile for coach travel and 3 cents a mile for sleeping and parlor car passengers between points on their lines, without demanding the usual surcharge.

Precedent

(Associated Press.)

Another White House precedent has been shattered.

When callers visited Mr. Roosevelt's executive office yesterday they found ranked row on row pictures nailed to the cream-colored wall of the oval room. An occasional framed photograph has appeared on the executive desk in other administrations, but the oldest White House visitor can not recall the sight of a picture hanging from the wall.

The pictures, several dozen of them, are part of Mr. Roosevelt's prized collection of "Hudson River prints," brightly colored lithographs of scenes along the river and in the highlands that roll away from the door of the President's home at Krum Elbow.

They were brought from Albany recently, where many of them had decorated the walls of the executive office at the State Capitol and the Governor's Mansion.

COURT HEARING SET IN BANK FUNDS CASE

The title of more than $29,000 of trust funds that were withdrawn from the Commercial National Bank the day before it was closed, to be placed in a safe deposit box at the same bank, will be thrashed out in District Supreme Court March 28, an order signed by Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue directed yesterday.

The money was withdrawn by Thomas Blackwell Smith, assistant cashier of the bank, as executor of the estate of Gertrude L. Hoffman, who died in March, 1931. Smith drew the money from his accounts as executor and placed it in the safety box on February 27.

The court was told that a request had been made of Robert C. Baldwin, receiver for the bank, for permission to get the money out of the bank. The request was denied on the theory the money had been withdrawn in violation of law.

In his petition Mr. Smith said he was not a general executive of the bank, that he was not a member of the board of directors and had no knowledge of the bank's condition when, in his capacity as executor of the estate, he withdrew the money. He declared also that he withdrew the money without any intention of violating the law, but to protect the estate's money. Attorneys G. B. Craighill and B. D. Botsler appeared for him.

PUBLIC WORKS PLAN DELAYED FOR TIME

Railroad legislation also is in prospect, but the details of the plan upon which the President is working will not be ready for presentation to Congress for several weeks.

Budget balancing is the immediate task in hand in the executive branch. The President is working daily with Budget Director Douglas on departmental cuts, Federal reorganization and the new veteran regulations authorized in this week's economy bill. Mr. Roosevelt has not yet received precise figures on how much may be lopped from the 1934 budget. Some of his advisers anticipate, however, when both the veteran and departmental cuts have been realized, the total savings will be in the neighborhood of $600,000,000 to $800,000,000 a year.

If the beer bill is enacted, new revenues, approximating $150,000,000 a year are expected, according to the President's fiscal advisers.

Both Are Optimistic.

Both President Roosevelt and Secretary Woodin feel most optimistic about the prospects of banking and business generally. But they believe recovery should be permitted to advance a month or so before further plans are laid in the field of budget and finance.

The regulations which are to govern the reductions in veterans' allowances are now being prepared by Director Douglas. They probably will be promulgated within ten days. It is expected they will wipe as many as 500,000 names from the veterans' dole list, principally from the ranks of those now receiving compensation or hospitalization, or both, for sickness or injuries not in any way connected with the military service.

It is the fixed policy of the administration in devising these regulations that no former service man suffering actual military injuries, direct or indirect, shall suffer a penny loss in the drive against the 500,000 pension racketeers.

Honduran Area Shaken Three Days by Quakes

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, March 17 (A.P.).—A number of earth shocks of varying intensity have occurred during the last three days in the Olancho and Yoro districts of Honduras, causing some alarm but no damage.

They were felt slightly in Tegucigalpa, the capital.

State Rules Road-Hikers Must Carry Red Lights

Topeka, Kans., March 17 (A.P.). Pedestrians on Kansas highways after dark without a gleaming red light somewhere about their person will trudge at their own risk, under a bill approved by the Kansas Senate.

The bill provides that any person walking or moving machinery or movable objects along the highways after dark without a red light that can be seen 500 feet shall be barred from recovering any damages in event of an accident.

LEGISLATION NEEDED FOR MARYLAND BEER

Steps Will Be Taken at Annapolis to Make It Legal in Nearby Counties.

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ.

Beer-thirsty eyes in nearby Maryland will be turned on Annapolis next week while the legislators take final steps to release the flow of amber fluid, for all the travail and efforts of Congress this week won't put a single legal schooner on the bar unless the General Assembly does something about the local prohibition laws in Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties.

It is pretty well assured that the State Legislature will do something about the local laws. Attorney General William Preston Lane will have a bill ready next week to repeal any local law forbidding the sale of 3.05 per cent beer. The attitude of the delegates from southern Maryland (where the rye comes from) and from Baltimore (where Washington goes for beer) on this bill may be imagined. Any county which wants to keep its present local prohibition can amend the law to exempt itself from the repealer.

County Restrictions.

Beer with 3.05 per cent alcohol is now nonintoxicating by act of Congress. Therefore, any laws forbidding intoxicating liquor will not apply to beer of this standard. But both Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties measure the illegality of beer by other standards.

Montgomery County puts restrictions on "spirituous or fermented or intoxicating" liquors and on mixtures containing any alcohol at all. Prince Georges County bans "liquids and mixtures containing more than one-half of 1 per cent by volume." Under these laws any three quarts of beer could fail to produce a single giggle or a single tear and still be illegal.

Even without any legislative action, the neighboring Marylanders may enjoy a quiet glass in the home with perfect propriety and freedom from legal worry. The Free State laws allow a man to hold not more than twelve bottles of beer without transgressing on the statute books. They also allow him two quarts of hard liquor, but Congress still forbids this and he must fear the Federal dry agents.

Border Embargo Reasons.

It is understood that the new Maryland law will impose a tax of $1 a barrel on the new beverage, and that various counties may also impose local taxes. Another Maryland bill of interest to the beer drinkers will restore the free lunch to its former bountiful glory. Years ago, when the competition between saloons in providing viands was ruining the honest saloonkeepers, a law was passed limiting the menu to pretzels and cheese. The new bill will remove the limit and restore the spicy sausage, the succulent pickle and the coral ham to the bar.

It is considered likely that both Prince Georges and Montgomery counties will retain some sort of control over the liquor traffic within their gates after the General Assembly has acted. The reasons which imposed prohibition on Marylanders before national prohibition still remain and will remain until the District goes wet.

The reasons are the fringe of drinking dens which spring up in Maryland on the District borders. Unable to relax from honest toil in their home city, District residents would drive into Maryland for a few quick ones. They did not always stick to a few, and their resulting reactions so shocked the county citizens that they imposed restrictions on themselves to control their guests. The same thing will happen again unless the new era confines drinking to the home, and this is where it will probably be cabined in the new Maryland regime.

Miss Helen Tewksbury Unhurt as Horse Trips

Miss Helen Tewksbury, popular member of Washington's younger social set and daughter of Dr. William D. Tewksbury, prominent physician, escaped serious injury yesterday when her horse tripped and fell as she was riding in Rock Creek Park.

Though thrown heavily by her falling mount, Miss Tewksbury escaped all but a shaking-up although the horse's weight landed on her foot. After a few moments she was able to ride back to her starting point with her riding companion. The accident occurred near the point where the western bridle trail intersects Tilden street northwest.

Winchester Man Returns To Face Liquor Charge

Winchester, Va., March 17 (A.P.).—Roy W. Richards, arrested in Del Ray Beach, Fla., was returned to Winchester last night to answer a charge of illegal manufacture and possession of alcoholic liquors. He waived extradition.

A warrant for Richards' arrest was issued after a still and hundreds of gallons of liquor were found by firemen who went to extinguish a blaze in the house occupied by him.

London Jury Decides Anny Ahlers Suicide

London, March 17 (A.P.).—A coroner's jury inquiring into the death last Wednesday of Anny Ahlers, the actress, delivered a verdict today of suicide while of unsound mind.

Miss Ahlers, who was playing "The Du Barry," died of injuries which resulted from a fall from her second-floor bedroom window. It was said that she had been walking in her sleep, but the jury found that she had jumped from the window. She was 26.

Maryland Farmer Dies Under Tree He Felled

Chestertown, Md., March 17 (A.P.). When Albert Lee, life insurance agent, went to the home of Pleasant Stout, today to pay a $100 premium due on the death of Stout's father, he found Stout lying dead under a fallen tree.

Stout, a farmer, had been felling trees with an ax and was crushed to death.

D. C. Securities Bill Introduced.

A bill to require registration of securities salesmen and dealers in the District, similar to the old Bowman securities measure, was introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Harlan (Democrat), Ohio.

FARM RELIEF PLAN FACING HARD FIGHT

(Associated Press.)

Congressional action on President Roosevelt's farm relief program was postponed until next week as a movement for revision of some of its most drastic provisions yesterday reached proportions that forecast a bitter legislative battle.

There was a strong sentiment to heed the Chief Executive's plea for "a trial" of the most complicated of his four proposals for emergency action. But there was likewise a persistent disposition to delay action until the reactions of producers and processors over the Nation may be measured.

The House adjourned yesterday until Monday when the Senate also is scheduled to resume activity. Meanwhile Agricultural Committees of both branches studied the measure which would place in the hands of Secretary Wallace authority to apply the provisions of different relief plans to nine farm commodities—cotton, wheat, corn, hogs, cattle, sheep, tobacco, rice, milk and its products.

Movement of Revision.

The movement to revise the measure was most apparent in the Senate, where chief criticism centered about the bill's provision authorizing the Secretary of Agriculture to require licenses from all processors and handlers of these commodities.

One of the strongest factors in providing support for the bill was the President's candid pledge to stop its operation if it appeared to be a failure and his statement that if it failed he "would be the first to acknowledge it."

Strong interest attached to a statement reported to have been made by Wallace before the Senate committee in which he estimated that "the burden to be borne by the consumers would be about $800,000,000."

Because provisions of the bill are so broad, this was taken in some quarters to indicate the trend of the administration's plan for administering the act. Some opponents of the measure have asserted that its provisions for processing taxes might mean that consumers would be required to pay up to $2,000,000,000 more for processed foodstuffs.

Cooperation of Processors.

Wallace indicated that he has no immediate intention of exercising every provision in the bill, that his hope is to effect price increases by cooperation of processors and producers through trade agreements. He plans to move benefits of the act to farmers in the form of rental payments although he would have authority to use the benefit plan provided in the original allotment plan.

Representatives of processors, after analyzing the legal and practical aspects of the bill, asked public hearings to gain time to propose amendments. Some of them privately condemned the measure as "undue interference with private business;" others said the proposal would result in "nationalization of agriculture, price fixing and other dangerous experiments."

Leaders of farm organizations, whose agreement forms the basis of the measure, joined in a statement urging quick passage of the measure. They pointed to the proximity of planting time and the necessity for time to set up administrative agencies in order to make it effective for this year's crops.

Lifebelt Mistake Fatal to Fugitive

Texas Slayer Who Plunged From Ship Found With His Feet in Air.

New Orleans, March 17 (U.P.).—Carelessness in attaching a lifebelt ended the spectacular bid for freedom of Henry J. Toussaint, Texas murder fugitive, who leaped from the United Fruit Co. steamship Turrialba near the mouth of the Mississippi River Thursday, it was revealed today. He put the lifebelt on upside down. His body was found, encircled by the belt, floating head down and feet in the air. His hand still clenched his suitcase. He was wearing a bathing suit.

The body of the former Harvard student was brought to New Orleans today from Point a la Hache and held pending word from relatives in Texas. As an engineer, Toussaint constructed Central American airports, saw service at the U. S. submarine base at Panama and also in South American oil fields.

He escaped from the Texas Penitentiary in 1928 after serving five years of a life sentence for killing his father.

House Arms Embargo Hearing Opens Tuesday

(Associated Press.)

Chairman McReynolds yesterday said he would open hearings before the House Foreign Affairs Committee next Tuesday on an administration proposal to authorize President Roosevelt to place an embargo on shipments of arms and munitions in any country in the world.

"The State Department has approved the measure," McReynolds said. He added that Undersecretary Phillips would be one of the State Department officials to testify on it.

President Kids Duffy On Absence of Green

(Associated Press.)

Senator F. Ryan Duffy, of Wisconsin, received a kidding from President Roosevelt yesterday when he showed up at the White House on St. Patrick's day wearing a blue tie and no sign of green.

"Well, my face makes it unnecessary for me to wear any green," replied the senator.

D. C. MAY GET BEER AS SOON AS APRIL 4

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The District may yet have beer, and wine, too, for that matter, by the time the national measure becomes law.

A fifteen-day clause in the national bill will restrict sale of beer until April 4, even if House and Senate conference differences are adjusted Monday.

Congressional wets so phrased the District bill that its provisions can become law the day the national bill goes into effect.

Meantime, rapid developments yesterday enhanced prospects of the local legislation. The situation, as the House quit work for the week, was as follows:

Appointment of Republican members to the House District Committee paved the way to organization of the local group next week.

From her sick bed Chairman Mary T. Norton of the House District Committee called a meeting of the committee for Monday morning at 10:30 to take up the Palmisano beer-for-revenue bill.

A wringing wet Senate District Committee awaited only the call of Chairman William H. King, who also is ill, before sitting in judgment on the Tydings counterpart of the Palmisano measure.

House and Senate leaders promised they would do nothing to obstruct the course of the local legislation.

Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), Maryland, whose judiciary subcommittee held hearings on the local bill last session, thinks no additional House hearings will be necessary, and Senator Millard E. Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, author of the Senate bill, will not press for hearings in the upper chamber.

It was learned that "barbecue" stands are pressing for amendment of "on sale" regulations in the District measure, so they can serve beer to customers who wait in their cars.

Matsuoka Scores War With America

U. S.-Japanese Fight Termed as Act of Madness; Quits London.

London, March 17 (A.P.).—Yosuke Matsuoka, chief Japanese delegate at recent League of Nations meetings at which the Sino-Japanese conflict was considered, declared today before his departure for America that war between the United States and Japan "would be an act of madness."

Mr. Matsuoka, who will pass through the United States on his way to Tokyo, asserted that Americans have "condoned the fault of Chinese misgovernment and magnified those of Japanese good government."

To explain his analysis of the American public attitude, he used American slang, saying that the American people "fall for appeals to your emotions; this is what you have done regarding China." He made these statements in a special interview.

W. D. Mitchell to Enter New York Law Firm

(Associated Press.)

William D. Mitchell, Attorney General in the Hoover administration, will return to private practice of law April 1 in New York City. He announced yesterday he would join the firm of Taylor, Blanc, Capron & Marsh, the name of which then will become Mitchell, Taylor, Capron & Marsh.

Although never active in politics, Mr. Mitchell was appointed Solicitor General of the United States by President Coolidge in June, 1925, and held that office until March 4, 1929, when he became Attorney General.

Man Gets Two Months In Extortion Attempt

Philadelphia, March 17 (A.P.).—Frank J. Burns, alias James P. Evans, of St. Louis, was sentenced to two months in jail today. He had pleaded guilty to attempted extortion of $105 from Mrs. Bradway Brown, whose husband was found slain two months ago in their Cinnaminson, N. J., home.

Burns has already spent five weeks in jail, having been arrested at the Philadelphia postoffice, where he sought an answer to his offer to explain the mysterious death of Brown in return for the money. Police said Burns had no information of value.

ROOSEVELT HOLDS LAST DAVIS PARLEY

Statement on American Aim at Arms Conference Is Prepared.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

President Roosevelt held his final interview with Ambassador Norman H. Davis, chief of the American delegation to the resuscitated disarmament conference, last night. Mr. Davis will sail for Europe on the American steamship Manhattan next Wednesday. The final hours of the new ambassador with the President were devoted to the preparation of the statement which is expected early next week on the forthcoming meetings in Geneva.

This will be more than the mere expression of American views or American reaction to the MacDonald proposals. It will embody the earnest and unremitting anxiety of the President and the Secretary of State for an agreement on the problems of disarmament at the next meeting of the delegates in Geneva.

For the present the American delegation at Geneva will not embark upon any definite plan of procedure. The Hoover disarmament proposals are still before the conference. Prime Minister MacDonald's disarmament concept borrowed some features of the Hoover plan in method, particularly with regard to the reduction of military effectives and airplanes, and with these precedents in mind, it is believed unwise at the present time for the United States to prepare another approach to the arms problem of the nations.

Out of the forthcoming conferences between the Duce in Rome and Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Minister Sir John Simon will come a valuable direction finder for international observers. In any event, the United States will use every possible means to make some very definite and very practical success of the Geneva Conference. "It shall not fail," seems to be the spirit of the American statesmen.

Mr. Davis will probably stay over in London after his arrival there for a few days to confer with Mr. MacDonald and Sir John Simon, who by that time will be returned from their Rome visit. It is also believed that he will go to Paris and Berlin, immediately before the conference meets again.

Murphy Succeeds Horan In Correspondent Post

Election of officers of the State Department Correspondents Association was held yesterday. The new president, M. Farmer Murphy, of the Baltimore Sun, will be in office for one year, succeeding Harold J. T. Horan, of The Washington Post. The vice president will be Denys Smith, of the London Morning Post; the secretary, Bertram D. Hulen, of the New York Times.

The executive committee will be composed of Joseph H. Baird, of the United Press; Charles Stephenson Smith, of the Associated Press; Kingsbury Smith, of International News; Fulton Lewis, of Universal Service; Drew Pearson, United Feature Service; H. J. T. Horan, Washington Post, and Kurt G. Sell, of the Berlin Wolff Bureau.

President Invited To Army Day Fete

Gen. Delafield Presents Bids to Review Parade Here April 6.

Brig. Gen. John Ross Delafield, of New York, commander in chief of the Military Order of the World War, yesterday presented to President Roosevelt an invitation to participate in the celebration of Army Day, April 6 sixteenth anniversary of America's entrance into the World War. Gen Delafield was accompanied by Maj. Edwin S. Bettelheim, jr., adjutant general, and Capt. John Parker Hill, of Philadelphia, vice commander in chief, of the order.

The President was advised that plans have been completed for celebrations in nearly every city and town throughout the United States, in the form of parades, maneuvers, radio broadcasts with banquets and mass meetings. Most important of all will be the large parade up Fifth avenue in New York City, headed by Brig. Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt, and the one in Washington with Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone as the grand marshal. The President and his Cabinet were invited to review the Washington parade.

Parley on Idleness Will Be Held Today

Program of Action to Be Urged on Congress Will Be Dismissed.

Dr. Sidney E. Goldstein, of New York, chairman of the executive committee of the joint committee on unemployment, will open the conference on Congress and unemployment at 10 o'clock this morning at the Ambassador Hotel with an address on "The Committee's Program to Get Congress to Act."

The day's program will include a session at 3:30 p. m., radio addresses at 5 p. m., over the N. B. C. blue network, by Dr. Goldstein, Dr. R. A. McGowan, of the National Catholic Welfare Council, and Dr. Edward L. Israel, and a dinner at 7 o'clock at the Cosmos Club.

Speakers at the dinner will include Senator Black, of Alabama, and Prof. James McGoldrick, of Columbia University.

Bill Seeks "Peace College."

The President would be authorized to appoint a committee to work out a plan for establishment of a "Peace College" in the District, under a bill introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Celler (Democrat), New York.

$50,000 de Grasse Memorial Asked.

Representative Beck (Republican), Pensylvania, yesterday introduced a bill appropriating $50,000 for erection in the District of a memorial to Comte de Grasse, commander of the French fleet during the Revolutionary War.

DUCE GOING TO OSTIA TO GREET M'DONALD

Will Drive to Point Where British Will Land in Gen. Balbo's Plane.

Rome, March 17 (A.P.).—Premier Mussolini intends to drive to Ostia tomorrow noon personally to welcome Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon of Great Britain. By doing this he can get the preliminaries of their conference over with during the 40-minute drive back to Rome.

This will enable the conferees to launch directly, later in the afternoon, into the discussions, which, it is hoped, will lead to the settlement of Europe's political difficulties.

Official Rome is eagerly awaiting the arrival of the British statesmen in confident expectation that their conversations with Signor Mussolini will form the basis of a disarmament agreement and of cooperation with the large nations of Europe, which otherwise, it is feared, will divide into French and Fascist groups.

It will be the first meeting of two premiers who once fought in the ranks of Socialism, from which both of them eventually broke. And it will be Mr. MacDonald's first visit to Rome since 1920.

Immediately after their arrival in Rome Mr. MacDonald, his daughter Ishbel and Sir John will have a private luncheon at the British Embassy. Afterward for a short time they will adopt the Roman siesta custom before the first formal discussion with Il duce in the middle of the afternoon.

The visitors, who are coming from Geneva, will be met at Genoa by Gen. Italo Balbo, the Italian air minister, who will fly them in a twin-motored seaplane to Ostia.

Expectations here are that the discussions will cover a wide range of subjects, including settlement of the war debts, revision of tariffs and the stabilization of currencies on the basis of gold.

THREE MEN SEIZED IN $500,000 HOLDUP

More Arrests Expected in Robbery of Chicago Mail Carrier and Guard.

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—Three men charged with holding up a mail carrier and an armed guard in Chicago's Loop last December 6 were arrested today by postoffice inspectors and police.

The loot from the holdup was variously estimated from $250,000 to $500,000.

The inspectors said $18,000 of the loot, in bonds, was found in the home of E. Richard Bagarozy, an attorney, in the Bronx.

The attorney was arrested. Two others apprehended gave their names as Robert Roberto, 35, and Dominick Gentile, 43, both of New York City.

Details of the capture were not disclosed, police saying this would interfere with the subsequent capture of the other members of the gang.

All three were taken to the general postoffice for questioning.

In a midmorning fog that hung over Chicago's financial center, the bandits, with pistols and machine guns, snatched a mail bag from a carrier and escaped the guard. The contents of the bag, destined for the First National Bank, consisted mostly of bonds and negotiable stocks.

Woman Lets Husband and Son Starve While She Hoards $2,000.

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—This is just the way Detective Harry Sloan told the story today after it was all over:

"Well, we got the call to 695 Park avenue, Brooklyn. The woman—wait a minute, I've got her name here—Mrs. Allegra Marcus—well, she and her boy, Max—he's 6—were lying in bed groaning. So was the father, John.

"We sent 'em to the hospital and then looked over the place. No poison. Not a bit of food. Then what do you think we found under the mattress? A pocketbook with $1,600 cash, two money orders and a bank book showing deposits of $400.

"At the hospital they said all of them were suffering from malnutrition. So I went over and talked to the woman. I asked her why they were starving when they had all that dough, and she said it was her husband's job to support the family, and the money was hers and she wasn't going to spend any if he didn't support them.

"So I talked to the husband and he said he hadn't been able to get a job for seven months. Then I tried to argue with the wife, but she sounded so positive I gave up.

"When a woman lets the electric company turn off the lights and gets an eviction for not paying the rent and won't even buy food, with two grand under the mattress, there's no use arguing."

CONSTITUTION PLAN FOR INDIA REVEALED

London White Paper Tells Scheme Developed by 3 Round Tables.

London, March 17 (A.P.).—Proposals for the creation of a federal constitution in an Indian government consisting of autonomous British Indian provinces and such Indian states as choose to enter are contained in the government's white paper on Indian constitutional reform, published today. The scheme is a result of the three Indian round table conferences held in London in recent years.

In the central federation and the provinces council, ministers would be constituted who would be responsible to elected Legislatures. The governor general would have special responsibilities in matters relating to peace, public order, financial stability, credit, minorities, the protection of members of the public services, protection against commercial discrimination, and the rights of the Indian states. In these matters he would have full discretion.

A feature of the white paper is the enlargement of the franchise. Only a low percentage of the male population has been entitled to vote. The white paper would provide for enfranchisement of 27 per cent of the males. Women would be entitled to sit in all Legislatures and, according to qualifications, to enjoy the franchise.

It is understood Parliament will be asked at the end of the month to appoint a joint select committee made up equally of lords and commoners to examine the white paper before it will be presented in the form of a bill.

New Beer Illegal, Canon Chase Says

Tells Roosevelt That Anything Above 2 Per Cent Is Intoxicating.

Contending that beer of more than 2 per cent alcoholic content is intoxicating and not permissible under the Constitution, Canon William Sheafe Chase, superintendent of the International Reform Federation, asked President Roosevelt yesterday by letter to give the dry forces opportunity to set forth reasons why the beer bill should be vetoed.

He asserted that the bill permits beverages which are not, as the Democratic platform requires, "of an alcoholic content permissible under the Constitution," and appealed to the President not to allow himself to be diverted from his "God-given task to lead the people in this time of great depression."

He stated that at least 80 per cent of the intoxicating beverages sold in the saloons before prohibition in this country was beer which averaged 3.45 per cent alcoholic content.

Kidnaping for Ransom Capital Crime in Utah

Salt Lake City, March 17 (A.P.).—Kidnaping for ransom was a capital offense in Utah today, with the signature by Gov. Henry H. Blood, of a bill passed by the recent Legislature.

It provides death or life imprisonment for kidnaping for ransom, and imprisonment from one year to life for kidnaping where ransom is not involved.

Fugitive Declares Capture Is Relief

Runaway Convict Is Under Suspicion in Murder, but Wife Is Loyal.

Butte, Mont., March 17 (A.P.).—Facing an uncompleted prison term and possibly prosecution for murder, Harry Bushnell, 48, escaped Michigan convict, said he was "glad" to be rid of the haunting fear of capture which had hung over him fifteen years.

Best of all, said Bushnell, is the knowledge that his wife, "a great little scout," is going to stick by him.

He said she hadn't known of his Michigan State prison record until he was arrested last night. She had no knowledge of the fact Bushnell was sought as a suspect in the slaying of Mrs. Tillie Jenkins and Vaiden Bordner, about the time he "walked away" from the prison farm on which he served as a trusty July 6, 1918. A man with whom Bushnell had worked in the mines identified him from a picture in a detective story magazine that had offered $100 reward for his capture.

Tombstone Thief Sentenced.

Erie, Pa., March 17 (A.P.).—William J. Hooper yesterday was sentenced to serve from eight to sixteen months in the workhouse for stealing a tombstone.

REDS DEAF TO TRIAL PROTEST OF BRITAIN

Moscow Holds No Pressure or Menace Will Halt Trying of Four.

Moscow, March 17 (A.P.).—Overriding protests by the British government, the Soviet authorities announced tonight that four British subjects, accused of sabotage, would be placed on criminal trial. The four are charged with committing the alleged sabotage in connection with their work for a British electrical machinery company which has been doing business here for ten years.

"No pressure or menace will be able to induce the Soviet government to refrain from keeping its laws in relation to British subjects," Foreign Minister Maxim Litvinoff said in an official communique.

The accused men were arrested last week-end, along with 35 Russian employes of the Metropolitan-Vickers Co., simultaneously with raids on the company's offices in Moscow and Leningrad. Six Britons were arrested, but two have been released.

The communique announced that the Britons and Russians would be tried together and that the proceedings would be public. The trial is expected to be held within a month.

The Soviet government's action was in answer to protests by Britain and to a declaration by Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council, in the House of Commons to the effect that the British government was convinced the charges were unjustified. The details of the accusations have not been published.

Farmer to Pay Alimony With Products of Land

Scranton, Pa., March 17 (A.P.).—Stephen Sarik, a farmer, is going to say it with chickens and potatoes in the future in supporting his wife. Sarik was brought into court today for nonsupport.

"I can't support her when I haven't any cash, but I'm willing to pay her in chickens and potatoes," Sarik said to the court.

"If he does that it will be all right," spoke up Mrs. Sarik, and the court approved the bargain.

Philadelphia Bombing Draws Attack of Duce

Rome, March 17 (A.P.).—John M. Di Sylvestro, of Philadelphia, whose wife was killed last January when their Philadelphia home was bombed, was received today by Premier Mussolini, who expressed indignation at the attack.

Mrs. Di Sylvestro's name, said the premier, will be included in the list of Fascist martyrs. The two also talked of the affairs of the Sons of Italy in America, an order of which Mr. Di Sylvestro is the president.

Careful Teller Finds Spurious Cent in Till

Topeka, Kans., March 17 (A.P.).—Louis A. Myers, a bank teller, miscalculated the lengths to which counterfeiters will go these days.

For weeks Myers has carefully scrutinized all currency and 50 and 25 cent pieces presented at his window. Warning of bogus money had been given. Today the teller checked over his cage and found a spurious penny reposing in his till.

Owner of Lindbergh's Flying School Is Dead

Audit Report Looming, County Clerk Is Suicide

Troy, N. C., March 17 (A.P.).—Edgar Haywood, 55, for 22 years clerk of Montgomery County Court, was found fatally wounded with a bullet through his head in the basement of the courthouse here today. Sheriff C. C. Howell said Haywood committed suicide.

An audit of Haywood's books has been under way for two weeks. The auditors were scheduled to report their findings to the county board of commissioners this week.

Bank Cashier Held For $20,000 Theft

Son of Prominent Family in Gastonia, N. C., Said to Confess.

Gastonia, N. C., March 17 (A.P.).—Thomas B. Carpenter, 36, assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Gastonia, was in jail here in lieu of $15,000 bond today on a Federal warrant charging embezzlement of approximately $20,000. Authorities said he had confessed.

Carpenter was arrested early today on a warrant issued by Harold E. Andersen, of Charlotte, special agent of the United States Bureau of Investigation. He is the son of Miles A. Carpenter, former treasurer of the Gaston Loan & Trust Co., and a nephew of Solicitor John G. Carpenter, of this district.

Bank authorities quoted him as saying $6,500 of the missing money was used to pay a personal note which his uncle, the solicitor, held against him but that he refused to account for the remainder.

Former Governor's Father Dies.

Portland, Oreg., March 17 (A.P.).—Hiram Wallace Olcott, 91, father of Ben W. Olcott, former Governor of Oregon, died at his home here last night. He was born in New Hampshire in 1842, and served in Co. G, Thirty-sixth Massachusetts Volunteers in the Civil War. He will be buried at Keithsburg, Ill.

Watch Industry Ruin Feared.

Started Sentence Minus Trial.

Jonesboro, Ark. (U.P.).—Without trial, a man arrested on a bootlegging charge here recently insisted on starting his sentence. He stated he knew he would be sentenced and wanted to finish the term. The jailers acquiesced.

GIRL KIDNAP VICTIM GETS THREAT NOTES

Stafford, Va., March 17 (A.P.).—Commonwealth's Attorney G. B. Wallace, of Stafford County, has in his possession two notes which he says apparently were designed to frighten Caroline Musante, 14-year-old school girl, and prevent her from identifying two men sought for abducting her and keeping her tied to a tree for several hours while they questioned her about plans to kidnap the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Porter, neighbors of the Musante family.

While declining to give out the texts of the notes, one of which was found at Stafford High School a week ago, and the other discovered on a window of the school Tuesday, Mr. Wallace said they were signed "United States Kidnaping Gang," and threatened the lives of Caroline and the Porter infant. The note found this week was addressed to Caroline Musante and contained the statement, "This is your last chance."

This note threatened her with death unless William Kendall, a seaman held in jail at Baltimore and identified by her as one of her abductors, is released. The previous one promised death if she identified Harvey Otis, another seaman now on a voyage, but whose movements are being checked.

Since the girl's seizure on February 2 she has been guarded by relatives whenever she has left her home, and a constant vigil at the Porter home has been maintained by members of the family.

Earthquake, Tornado Leave Barber at Loss

Long Beach, Calif., March 17 (A.P.).—W. H. McGinnis, Long Beach barber, was shaving a customer last Friday when an earthquake swayed his shop. He wiped his razor, excused himself and departed.

Today a friend received a postcard from the barber, who wrote from Tennessee. He explained he arrived in Nashville about the time a tornado visited that section. Friends expect him home soon.

Hoover in Chicago; Is Silent on Plans

Chicago, March 17 (A.P.).—Herbert Clark Hoover, former President, arrived here today and insisted he was just a private citizen.

To questions as to his plans, his ambitions and his opinions on the economic situation, Mr. Hoover returned a stock answer: "None that I care to discuss now."

Mr. Hoover, accompanied by his son, Allan, and his private secretary, Lawrence Richey, was met at the train by Arch W. Shaw, of Winnetka, and Shaw's son, Roger. All got into Shaw's car with two detectives, and, preceded and followed by squad cars filled with policemen, rode to Winnetka. He will be Shaw's guest overnight and will resume his journey to Palo Alto, Calif., tomorrow.

Arson Evidence Sought In New Brunswick Fire

Sackville, N. B., March 17 (A.P.).—Police were investigating the possibility of arson today in connection with a fire which destroyed two buildings of Mount Allison University early this morning.

It was said that inflammable material had been found at two points where the fire broke out simultaneously. Ten days ago property damage of $75,000 was caused by a fire at the adjacent Mount Allison Academy.

Cleaner Fatally Shot Over Pants Argument

Officers questioned the dentist concerning the fatal shooting of Cecil Nichols, cleaning shop proprietor. Witnesses said the men quarreled when the cleaner refused to allow Dr. McLarty to have a pair of trousers before he paid a bill.

Third Farm Congress Adjourns in Argentina

Buenos Aires, March 17 (A.P.).—The third Agrarian congress was terminated here today after approving a resolution temporarily calling off a farmers' strike until congress has an opportunity to enact laws submitted by the government for agricultural relief.

A commission of the congress called on President Justo and handed him a petition approved by the assembly. He promised full support.

Waters Launching Nationalist Party

B. E. F. Commander States New Group Will Not Fight Roosevelt.

Omaha, Nebr., March 17 (A.P.).—Formation of a new party to be known as the American Nationalist Party was launched here last night by W. W. Waters, commander of the "Bonus Army" in Washington. About 250 persons attended the meeting and signed up. Most of them were World War veterans.

"The new party," said Waters, "will not seek to impede President Roosevelt. We will stand in back of him as long as he fulfills his pledges."

Waters plans to hold another meeting here, then carry his campaign to Lincoln, Nebr., and then on into Kansas.

Jersey Scrip Counterfeited.

Gloucester, N. J., March 17 (A.P.).—Counterfeit scrip, which appeared here in the past few days, has complicated redemption of certificates. Most banks are requiring persons depositing or cashing the scrip to indorse it.

HENRY MATTOX, 90 RITES TO BE TODAY

Civil War Veteran, Native of Ohio, Will Be Buried at Arlington.

Funeral services for Henry B. Mattox, 90, Civil War veteran, who died Thursday at his residence, 4911 Fourteenth street northwest, will be held today at 10 a. m. at the S. H. Hines funeral home, 2901 Fourteenth street northwest. Interment will be in Arlington National Cemetery, with military honors.

A native of Clermont County, Ohio, Mr. Mattox enlisted as a private in Company B of the Eighty-ninth Regiment, Ohio Volunteers, in August, 1862. He was engaged in many skirmishes and minor engagements prior to the battle of Chickamauga in the fall of 1863, in which he participated and was taken prisoner by the Confederate forces.

He was held a prisoner for the remainder of the war, a period of more than 14 months. He was confined in prison at Belle Isle, in Libby Prison in Richmond, at Andersonville and at Florence and Charleston.

After returning home he completed his education at Antioch College, and afterward was a school teacher in his native State. While a teacher he studied law and after being admitted to the bar he was subsequently elected clerk of the Court of Common Pleas of Clermont County. He held that office for a number of years.

He came to Washington with his family in 1889 and was employed in the office of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs until his retirement in 1923.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Abbie P. Mattox, and five children, Mrs. Newton H. Keister, of Indianapolis, Ind.; Miss Janet Mattox, of this city; Miss Gail Mattox, of Cincinnati, Ohio; Mrs. Chester Harrison, of Brownwood, Tex., and Porter L. Mattox, also of Washington.

Mayor May Act In Theater Row

All Cleveland Houses Are Closed in Dispute Over Wages.

With de luxe theaters uptown following the example of 80-odd neighborhood houses which closed last Sunday because of wage disputes with operators, stage hands and musicians, there was not a lighted movie palace marquee in the city.

A report from City Hall that Mayor Ray T. Miller was considering steps to bring theaters and their employes together in new negotiations was the only development offering a prospect that drawn curtains of the ticket booths might be lifted soon.

D. R. CAMERON BURIAL.

Will Be in Arlington Tomorrow After Funeral Rites at Chapel.

Donald R. Cameron, 33, of 9311 Montgomery avenue, North Chevy Chase, Md., who died Thursday as a result of a fall from the Taft Bridge, will be buried in the Arlington National Cemetery following funeral services at Joseph Gawler's Sons Chapel, 1745 Pennsylvania avenue, at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Cameron had been separated from his wife. He served as a quartermaster in the Naval Aviation Service from May 9, 1917, to December 19, 1918, at Pensacola, Fla., and was a member of the Quentin Roosevelt Post, American Legion. He was employed by the Howard P. Foley Co., Inc., an electrical contracting firm.

70 YEARS IN ARMY, GEN. KING, 88, DIES

Veteran of Many Wars Succumbs to Shock After Stumbling on Rug.

Milwaukee, March 17 (A.P.).—Brig. Gen. Charles King, 88, veteran of the Civil, Spanish-American and World Wars, and of a host of Indian campaigns, died today from what physicians said was shock due to an injury suffered when he stumbled over a rug.

For almost 70 years, Gen. King was an active member of the United States Army. Up to three days ago he was still "obeying orders," working at the behest of the War Department on a history of American Indian wars.

With much of that history he had had intimate personal association. He fought the Sioux, Apaches, and the Tontos, participating in the campaigns of Sunset Pass, Diamond Butte, and Black Mesa and, to the end of his days, he suffered discomfort from wounds inflicted by the Tontos in an ambush in Arizona in 1879.

Last Wednesday, Gen. King stumbled over a rug at his hotel and one shoulder was fractured. Shock of the injury contributed to his death, physicians said.

Gen. King was born at Albany, N. Y., October 12, 1844. He began his military career in the Civil War, serving as a messenger to his father, Brig. Gen. Rufus King. In 1862, President Lincoln appointed him to West Point.

Throughout his military career he was a voluminous writer and, beside works on military tactics numerous novels came from his pen, including a "Life of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant."

Sol Herzog Rites To Be Tomorrow

Funeral at Home Will Be Followed by Masonic Grave Service.

Masonic rites will be held tomorow at the Washington Hebrew Congregation Cemetery for Sol Herzog, for many years a clothier in the Capital, who died Thursday at Emergency Hospital following an operation. Funeral services will be held in his home, 2737 Conecticut avenue northwest, at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow, with Rabbi Solomon A. Metz, of the Adas Israel Congregation officiating.

Mr. Herzog, an active member of civic, business and fraternal organizations, was a past master of the Osiris Lodge of Masons, a member of the board of trustees of the Washington Hebrew Congregation and a member of the board of directors of the Security Savings Bank.

He was a native of this city, the son of Joseph and Rachel Herzog. Surviving him is a son, Robert P. Herzog; three brothers, Moses Herzog, of Washington, and Louis Herzog and Samuel Herzog, of Chicago, and two sisters, Mrs. Henrietta Glasser, of Washington, and Mrs. David Nachman, of Augusta, Ga.

Last Rites Today For U. S. Walters

Funeral services for Ulysses S. Walters, of McLean, will be held at 2:30 p. m. today from the residence. Interment will be in Lewinsville Cemetery.

Mr. Walters was born at Hickory Hill, near Langley, Va., in August, 1863, and was one of the leading farmers of Fairfax County until about 20 years ago when he gave up farming to become a live stock dealer. He was a former president of the Alexandria-Fairfax Building and Loan Association, Rosslyn Va., and was a member of Potomac Lodge No. 5, F. A. A. M., of Georgetown, a Knight Templar and a member of the Southern Methodist Church at Langley.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Hattie Lee Febrey Walters, and four children, Mrs. Homer L. Wandling, of Westfield, N. J.; Neal Walters, of Covington, Ky.; George B. Walters, of Ormond, Fla., and Milton C. Walters, of Washington.

'Narcotic' He Sold Was Only Quinine

Prisoner Visioned 1900 Per Cent Profit, Before Bubble Burst.

San Francisco, March 17 (A.P.).—The law clutched Sam Wiley, a Negro, here today and his thoughts of 1900 per cent profit went glimmering. After explanations, however, Sam received his freedom.

He was arrested on a Federal narcotic charge after selling 10 cents worth of quinine to an inquisitive white man for $2. Sam said he bought the medicine to treat a cold, and had truthfully represented his merchandise when accosted.

Then Federal officers discovered an undercover agent had got his signals mixed.

Bodies of 2 Fliers in Buenos Aires.

Buenos Aires, March 17 (A.P.).—The bodies of Clifford E. McMillan, of Sydney, Ohio, and Richard Dymond, killed in a plane wreck in the Andes Saturday, arrived here today. After cremation, the ashes will be returned to the United States.

Gordon Lewis, 42, Actor, Kills Self

Father, in Arizona, Says Son Was Subject to Hallucinations.

Tucson, Ariz., March 17 (A.P.).—Gordon Lewis, 42, motion picture character actor and comedian, killed himself here today, investigators said, by shooting himself through the head.

Officers reported W. H. Lewis, his father, said the actor was subject to hallucinations, imagining "people always were pointing guns" at him. Lewis came to Tucson three days ago from Hollywood. He was formerly a resident of Harrison, Ark.

His picture career extended back 18 years. He played parts in many comedies for Fox, RKO, and Mack Sennett Studios and was in a featured role in "Black Beauty."

Mortgage Holiday Bill Passed.

Lansing, Mich., March 17 (A.P.).—A bill authorizing the courts to suspend mortgage foreclosures until May 1, 1935, was adopted by the Michigan House of Representatives today. The measure now goes to the Senate.

ARLINGTON-FAIRFAX ROAD FUNDS USED UP

Two Nearby Counties Not on State Schedule for New Highways.

Arlington and Fairfax Counties will receive no funds for construction of State highways in the primary system during the next fiscal year, according to the tentative allocations of construction funds made recently by the State Highway Commission of Virginia. A deficit of $18,005 for the cut-off around the town of Fairfax is to be paid out of next year's funds.

The estimated funds available for construction of primary State highways from July 1, 1933, to June 30, 1934, will be $8,003,220. From this amount the following deductions totaling $5,050,000 have been made. Estimated loss in gasoline tax for the current year, $750,000, with a similar estimated loss for next year; for the construction of airports, $25,000 has been set aside. The agricultural department will receive $25,000 for testing pumps.

For the construction and maintenance of the secondary State highway system under the Byrd road law $9,000,000 has been set aside for former county roads and $500,000 for city streets, this would leave a total of $2,959,220 available for allocation to the primary highway system.

Of the amount available for allocation, $315,720 will be used for overhead and engineering, $187,490 for surveys and plans and $50,000 for conditioning 2½ per cent mileage leaving, $2,400,000 available for the eight highway districts.

Of the amount available for allocation among districts $808,000 will be used to make up the deficits in six of these districts, the Richmond and Suffolk districts being the only two with no deficit. The allocations to districts are just sufficient to take care of convict road forces and there will be no funds available for any other work.

The allocation for Culpeper district, of which Arlington and Fairfax Counties are a part, will be $271,680. Of this amount $109,680 will be spent on Route 49 from Mineral to Culpeper and $90,312.96 on Route 55 from Chancellors Corner to Linden. The balance will be used to make up deficits on five other projects.

Contest Winners Get Medals Today

District School Children Much Interested in Concert Series.

Winners in the National Symphony Orchestra's letter-writing contest among the school-age children of the District will be announced at the young people's concert at 11 a. m. today at Central High School Auditorium. The youngsters who wrote the best letters describing the concerts held at Central High this year will be presented gold, silver and bronze medals designed by Mrs. Corrin Strong, well-known sculptress and patroness of the orchestra.

Several thousand letters were received during the last week, and Dr. Hans Kindler and the judges were kept busy perusing notes, telling what was good and what was not so good about the National Symphony, so far as the juvenile mind was concerned.

There were so many letters that warranted special notice besides the four winners that Conductor Kindler will read a long list of "honorable mention" names and present the young letter writers to the audience.

The program for today's orchestra concert will be as follows:

Polonaise ..... Bach
Polonaise ..... Chopin
Morceau ..... Hasselmans
(Harp solo by Prospero Miraglia)
Dream from Hansel and Gretel ..... Humperdinck
Flight of the Bumble Bee ..... Rimsky-Korsakov
(Awarding of prizes)
Everybody sing "Auld Lang Syne" ..... Scotch Air
Bolero ..... Ravel

RKO-KEITH'S

"OUR BETTERS." Radio picturization of the play by W. Somerset Maugham, adapted to the screen by Jane Murfin and Harry Wagstaff Gribble, starring Constance Bennett, with Violet Kemble-Cooper, Gilbert Roland, Phoebe Foster, Grant Mitchell and Minor Watson. Directed by George Cukor. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

In this chaste and purling idyl of opulent dowagers and their gigolos, recreant wives and their lovers and male parasites and their mistresses, W. Somerset Maugham pays his respects to the profligate fringe of aristocratic British society with vim, vigor and venom. In fashioning this blunt recital of social derelictions, mesalliances and the sinister subtleties of catty women, Mr. Maugham reveals vast frankness and little finesse; an enormous capacity for specious argument, but precious little for clever speech.

"Our Betters," I suspect, was intended for one of those brittle bits of delightful drawing-room daring in the Frederic Lonsdale manner, but what it is is just a bit of a bore, written with chalk on a blackboard and acted more or less in the priceless technique of the Masquers' Club comedies!

Constance Bennett, leaving much of her charm and a great deal of her refinement of both speech and method in the dressing-room, finds herself face to face with the unaccustomed experience of having a picture stolen from her, lock, stock and barrel by one of her supporting cast—that estimable and brilliantly equipped artiste, Miss Violet Kemble-Cooper, who, as the Duchess intent on preserving her right of ownership of a handsome young wastrel by the name of Pepi, contributes a performance that is worth all the rest of the company put together and multiplied by any number between 1 and 10!

Among the males, Grant Mitchell, as a self-expatriated American in London, and Gilbert Roland, as the duchess' gigolo, acquit themselves with some claim to a pat on the back, and Phoebe Foster adds a trifle more of distinction to the distaff side in a role of less consequence than her capabilities deserve. Poor little Anita Louise, as the younger sister of the wicked Miss Bennett, does her utmost to give all of her scenes the imprint of a supreme and gushy amateurishness and succeeds probably beyond her fondest expectations.

An amusing Edgar Kennedy comedy, in which flittery Florence Lake and Franklin Pangborn render valuable aid; a Lew White organ-logue, "Songs of Erin," with Norman Brokenshire waxing poetic, or something; the Pathe News and an unusually clever cartoon comedy, "Sassy Cats," do much to compensate for the slightly smudged effulgence of the feature.

EARLE

"THE KING OF THE JUNGLE." Paramount picturization of the story by Charles Thurley Stoneham, featuring Buster Crabbe, Frances Dee, Sidney Toler and Irving Pichel. Directed by H. Bruce Humberstone and Max Marcin. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

From the time that Romulus and Remus were suckled by the she-wolf, down through the pages of literary history to Edgar Rice Burrough's Tarzan thrillers, the theme of children raised by animals has been a favorite one for authors of an imaginative bent.

In "The King of the Jungle," and here it is the "lion man" and not Leo, this type of story about reaches the acme of perfection in combining imaginative fiction with superb cinematographic technique. Discarding all rhyme and reason, and pursuing the thread of narrative wherever it may lead, the story traces the career of a 3-year-old lad left to fend for himself in the African jungle following the untimely death of his parents.

Young Kaspa is mothered by a lioness, and as the years pass, he grows to man's estate, knowing no friends but the lions and, if the expression be pardoned, no language but theirs. He is ultimately captured by circus explorers • • •

Sure, it's a fanciful tale, but how it is told! Even without the two big battles—between a bull and a lion and between a lion and a tiger—Buster Crabbe's delineation of "the lion man," while giving him but a single opportunity to display that master stroke that won him 1932 Olympic swimming honors, is something to take. Frances Dee, as the school teacher, with Sidney Toler and Irving Pichel upholding the circusman's aspects, make a rare combination, all ideally cast for their several parts.

Although Ray Bolger, whose stumbling and tripping and long, lean, lanky build accentuates his every move, is headlining the stage bill with his antics, it is Long Tack Sam, and his company of 10 that offers a show-stopping 3-ring variety performance.

The bill, introduced by Maxine Doyle, all togged out in spring finery, opens with Picard and his trained seal, Micky, acrobat, contortionist, and imitator, an act that is easily the most entertaining of all its kind. The Four Mullens Sisters are heard in a series of songs, in the Boswell manner.

Completing the bill are a Merrie Melody, "Young and Healthy," a release of "Screen Souvenirs" and an "Irish Fantasy," played as an overture.

RIALTO

"THE BIG CAGE." Universal picturization of a story by Clyde Beatty and Edward Anthony, starring Mr. Beatty, with Anita Page, Raymond Hatton, Andy Devine and Vince Barnett. Directed by Kurt Neumann. Reviewed (second week) by W. A. Whitney.

The taming, if not real domestication, of lions and tigers is the subject of this thrilling picture, which, notwithstanding the title, is not primarily a circus picture. Played and partly authored by Clyde Beatty, conceded to be the Nation's premier animal trainer, "The Big Cage" proceeds in an orderly manner to relate, quite aside from the gossamer thread of the film's dramatic narrative, the methods employed antecedent to staging thrilling, hair-raising animal acts under the big top.

Teaming 20 lions and 20 tigers in a single act—Mr. Beatty's greatest claim to fame—offers the motivation; and when these natural enemies of the jungle are put in the same cast, the action takes care of itself.

Strictly authentic in every detail, "The Big Cage" moves on, utterly oblivious to strict narration; but the acting—indeed, the real life—of Mr. Beatty and his jungle dynamite greatly transcends the story, even though it is carried by such artists as Anita Page, Raymond Hatton, Vince Barnett and Wallace Ford.

The subsidiary attractions are "Should Crooners Marry?" and the Universal News.

LOEW'S FOX

"BROADWAY BAD." Fox Pictures' elimination of a story by William R. Lipman and A. W. Peter, adapted to the screen by Arthur Kober and Maude Fulton, featuring Joan Blondell, Ricardo Cortez and Ginger Rogers. Directed by Sidney Lanfield. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

This week the Fox gives us "Broadway Bad," which is good, and Broadway revived which is only fair.

"Broadway Bad" is one of those little, unobtrusive and probably unimportant pictures which succeed, nevertheless, in being very interesting and entertaining. The plot, fast-moving after a slow start, is always just a little ahead of you, which is nice and rather infrequent, and the ending is not only startling, but satisfactorily minus a clinch.

Tony Landers, a chorus girl in her first show as well as the secret bride of a rich and thoroughly unpleasant college boy, is mixed up in an ugly scandal and divorce suit. The resulting publicity she uses to build herself a notorious reputation which carries a spotlight career with it.

Some years after the divorce, the former husband and the man in the case, come into her life again.

Joan Blondell is excellent as Tony, looking prettier in some of the scenes than we have ever seen her. Ricardo Cortez is pleasantly smooth, sure and quiet in a nice characterization of a somewhat underwritten role.

"Follow Thru" on the stage, beautifully costumed and nicely staged though it is, would be vastly boring if it lacked Joe Penner and his hard-working choruses.

Having reviewed three of these condensed musicals (and this is the best of the trio), we're practically convinced that they won't quite click. Maybe they're outmoded; certainly they are too long in combination with a feature picture and subsidiaries.

Joe Penner works himself practically to death in a fine frenzy of apparent enthusiasm and even if you don't like all he does, we think you'll like him this time. Olive Olsen, his stellar partner, grows in sureness as she goes along and does a swellelegant eccentric dance. The choruses and two youngsters in the cast also help with dancing. There is, however, not a voice in the company.

The subsidiaries at the performance reviewed included a cartoon comedy, a Lyman Hodge animal film, an insane comedy with the insane Ben Blue, a sportorial all about motorcycles and how they climb hills, and a newsreel—so if it's quantity you want go to the supper show!

PALACE

"RASPUTIN AND THE EMPRESS." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of a story by Charles MacArthur, with musical score by Herbert Stothart, starring Ethel, Lionel and John Barrymore, with Diana Wynyard, Ralph Morgan, Tad Alexander, C. Henry Gordon and Edward Arnold. Directed by Richard Boleslavsky.

In The Post of January 28, just seven weeks ago this morning, we wrote, in part, as follows in appraisal of "Rasputin and the Empress," upon the occasion of its premiere as a "road show" attraction at the Columbia:

"True, in the main, to historical fact, regal in its material investiture and the sustained atmosphere of imperial grandeur and superbly acted by the three Barrymores, this sumptuously spectacular drama measures up in impressiveness to the epochal events with which it deals.

"Rasputin and the Empress' is more than any mere domestic intrigue, involving a monumental impostor and a queenly mother wrapped up in the welfare of her small and ailing son. It is the drama of a dynasty unthroned; the story of a social upheaval that altered the course of world events and presaged a national destiny that has not even yet definitely revealed itself.

"There is much in the development of the climacteric moments of the play that is genuinely and unforgettably harrowing. There is much in the gentler passages that is memorably beautiful. And there is throughout its length an integrity that leaves an enduring impression.

"Mr. MacArthur has been judicious in his distribution of opportunities among the trio of stars. Ethel Barrymore, as the Empress, who, through her blind faith in Gregory Rasputin, the slovenly charlatan who exercised a hypnotic power over the members of her household and court, made possible the overthrow of the Romanoffs, is a sympathetic and pitiful figure—yet not so pitiful as Czar Nickie, the Little Father of all the Russias, vacillating, indecisive and a moral weakling, despite a passionate devotion to his country and its people. Ralph Morgan portrays this role with understanding skill.

"If anyone profits by extended presence upon the scene, it is Lionel Barrymore in the role of Rasputin. This shrewd mountebank, of peasant origin and animal instincts, uncouth, lascivious and degraded, he makes a thoroughly obnoxious renegade "churchman," whose death is contrived in a manner at slight variance with supposed fact, its only authentic quality being the "mad monk's" tenacity of life. The death scene in which John Barrymore, in the heroic role of a fictitious Prince Paul Chegodieff, who has been added to history, slays Rasputtin by a gruesome bludgeoning and then drowning, is one of the most realistic episodes ever recorded in celluloid.

"John Barrymore, by a sudden reclamation of all those qualities of greatness that marked the last of his stage appearances, contributes the soundest character drawing he has done for the screen to the completion of a triumvirate of flawless performances.

"The record of fine achievement, however, is not restricted to the 'royal family.' Diana Wynyard, as the Princess Natasha; Master Tad Alexander, who does a remarkably precocious piece of work as the Czarevitch; C. Henry Gordon and Edward Arnold, all give excellent accounts of themselves in roles of importance. Then in the minor parts are such established artists as Mary Alden, William Boyd, Lucien Littlefield, Frank Reicher, Gustav von Seyffertitz and scores more."

Since "Rasputin and the Empress" is being presented without alteration or deletion, there would seem to be no sound reason for qualifying our original estimate of its many superior virtues merely because it is being offered at the Palace at popular prices.

Furthermore, it is being supplemented at the Palace by the Metrotone News and a Mickey Mouse cartoon comedy, making a two-hour-and-a-quarter entertainment—something that was not done at the Columbia. N. B. B.

SOUTHWEST BRIDGE PROBLEM LEFT OPEN

Fine Arts and Park Boards Also Study Roosevelt Isle Landscaping.

The question of a utility bridge across Southwest B street to link the Department of Agriculture buildings remained open after yesterday's joint meeting of the Fine Arts Commission and the National Park and Planning Commission.

However, it was decided that in case the bridge should be built, no obstructions to the street such as piers or pillars should be permitted.

Two studies by the Allied Architects, Inc., were presented at the meeting. One was a plan for the beautification of East Capitol street and the other a study of Georgetown.

The commissions also discussed plans for the landscaping of Theodore Roosevelt Island, for which plans have been prepared by Henry V. Hubbard, a member of the planning commission.

In the morning the two groups inspected the new House Office Building as guests of the Allied Architects.

Today the Fine Arts Commission will inspect the statues in Statuary Hall at the Capitol. Engineers have suggested that this be done because of the weight on the floors, and Congress has considered the advisability of removing them.

Iowa State College Alumni Celebrate

75th Anniversary of Institution's Founding Marked by Feast.

The seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of Iowa State College at Ames was celebrated last night by the Washington Chapter of the college alumni at a diamond jubilee dinner at the Cosmos Club.

In a short business meeting after the dinner the officers of the chapter were reelected for the coming year. Clarence H. B. Swanson, president, presided at the meeting and acted as toastmaster.

The guests of honor were Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, class of 1910, and Mrs. Wallace; R. A. Pearson, president of Maryland University and former president of Iowa State; former Senator and Mrs. S. W. Brookhart; Dr. C. W. Warburton, director of extension work, Department of Agriculture; Dr. Elwood Meade, commissioner of the Bureau of Reclamation, Department of the Interior, and Representative and Mrs. C. C. Dowell, of Iowa.

Union Opens Campaign To Enroll Bartenders

Bartenders will be garnered into the fold of unionism in a drive by the Hotel, Restaurant Employes Alliance, Local 781, to increase membership in their organization, it was announced yesterday.

The local organization received word from their national headquarters to begin the drive, extending it to all culinary workers, regardless of creed, sex or color. The pickets in front of the Russian Troika Restaurant, 1101 Connecticut avenue northwest, were removed.

METROPOLITAN

"42ND STREET." Warner Brothers picturization of a screen story by Rian James and James Seymour, based on a novel by Bradford Ropes, featuring Warner Baxter, Bebe Daniels, George Brent, Ruby Keeler, Una Merkel, Guy Kibbee, Ginger Rogers and George E. Stone. Directed by Lloyd Bacon.

Perpetrating its sensational record of popular favor and overflow attendance, begun at the Earle a fortnight ago and continued last week at the Metropolitan, where it still is housed, "42nd Street" enters its third Washington week with no apparent weakening of its hold upon public fancy. That is wholly understandable. Only once in a blue moon do such 100 per cent entertainments come along, and when they do they have a right to be appreciated and enjoyed.

"42nd Street" is something more than a mere symposium of tinkling tunes and a crazy quilt of miscellaneous dances. It is, first of all, interesting drama. The story of backstage life which it unfolds would be arresting as straight drama, unembellished with musical comedy trappings. These, however, are completely justified because the narrative centers in the preparation and staging of a gigantic modern revue.

Even so, the matter of music and dancing is not overdone. Comparatively few songs are introduced, but they are worth listening to: the dancing ensembles are infrequent, but brilliantly conceived and executed when they do occur.

The cast could hardly be improved upon. Warner Baxter, Bebe Daniels, Una Merkel and Ginger Rogers have never appeared to better advantage, and Ruby Keeler (Mrs. Al Jolson), in her first important screen assignment, steals the show by her charm, agreeable voice and recognized preeminence as a dancer. Guy Kibbee, George E. Stone, George Brent, Allen Jenkins, Robert McWade, Ned Sparks and Dick Powell are among others who render yeomen's service.

"Bosco in Person," a cartoon comedy, and the Paramount Sound News supplement the feature. N. B. B.

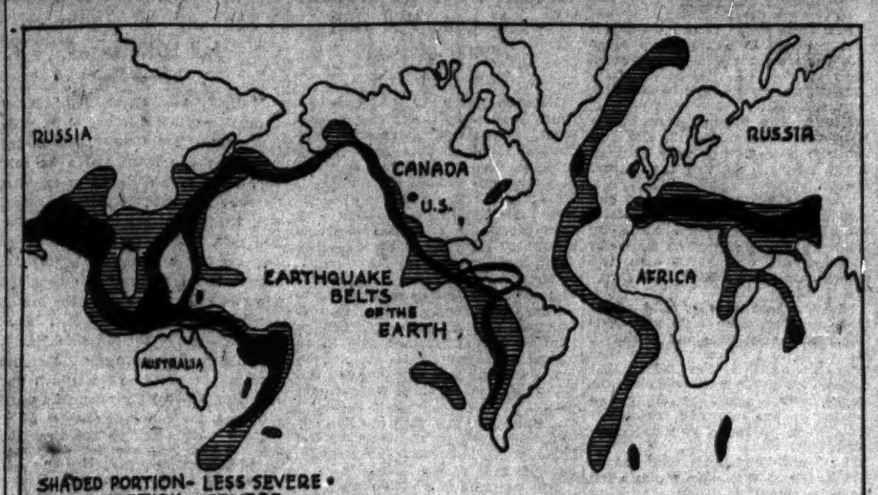
The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY



THERE is an instrument in the Coast and Geodetic Survey so sensitive as almost to register the touch of a finger on its glass case. And if you tap the case or jar it you are simulating an earthquake, to all intents and purposes.

The machine is automatic. A jolt starts a drum to revolve at the rate of once in a minute and a half. With sensitized paper on the drum in a dark room the shocks are recorded by an electric ray. In short, the instrument is a grown-up seismograph, a development brought about after many years in a perfecting stage.

Similar instruments were on the job in California and recorded the earth's lateral or vertical readjustments and they will add to the storehouse of knowledge Capt. N. H. Heck, chief, division of terrestial magnetism, and his force in that section have amassed over years of study.

"We expect to learn more from the recent quakes than from previous ones, because we will have the full cooperation of the public and utilities employes scattered all over the area," said the captain.

"In the Japanese quake the shocks were so severe that instruments were left useless, since the recording needles were thrown far off the paper and while they may have returned later, we have no record of what transpired in the meanwhile."

We learn that the lessons from quakes are cumulative. That is, each quake brings forth new experiments in building construction types, so that eventually, perhaps those in quake zones can rest comparatively easy from fear of collapsing structures. In California now the building limit is 125 feet high. In Japan it is 100.

• • • •

WE looked at a relief map of the Philippines. The islands are surrounded by deep troughs. There is a notable trough off California. Naturally, as the bottom or sides of the troughs slide or settle the effect often is felt on the continent.

The captain confirmed our information that quake zones are well defined. He handed us a map (shown above). It shows little of the Atlantic Coast is in the zone. The Americas' west coasts, Alaska and Japan are considerably in the quake areas.

"The Mississippi Valley is fairly free from quakes, isn't it, captain?"

"Except the region around New Madrid." And having been in New Madrid, we volunteered "Missouri."

"Yes, and we have no accounting for it."

FOR some reason enrollment for the Federal Diary jig-saw puzzle tournament at the Kennedy-Warren the evening of March 30 has taken a spurt. In the mail yesterday we note the names of Mrs. Edwina V. A. Avery, Agriculture; Harry Stepakof, Agriculture; E. L. Springer, Treasury; Miss Frances Skelly, Prohibition; Miss Katherine Rowland, Agriculture; Miss Emma Luebbing, Prohibition, and Mrs. Alice Gilcrest Atkinson, Agriculture:

Miss Rowland suggests, and in fact nominates Swarmi Fedd as Lord High Kabitzer in Chief of the contest and adds that Louise Varnum Woulfe, Agriculture, should be Assistant High Kabitzer. "A perfect pair of kabitzers," says she.

You know, Mr. Fedd, if you see him window shopping, really is doing just that, for he is trying to make up his mind just what would be some worthwhile prizes for the big contest. The more entrants, of course, the more and more valuable the prizes. So that if 500 or more enter, there'll probably be more prizes than an adding machine can total.

Then, too, Mr. Fedd likes the spectacular, but he doesn't like to start out that way. He prefers to move along smoothly and quietly, gaining momentum and suddenly, bang! The lid goes off and the fun begins. Those of you who attended the Federal Diary's first annual grand ball will recall that the party was something to write home about. The Diary Department has set a standard for real affairs and will hew to the line. That's your guarantee that the jig saw contest is something good.

And if you run out of coupons in the column, write your name on a separate sheet. Club together, bring your kabitzers. You'll work the same puzzle, start together—but will you end together? The prizes will tell.

Commerce Department Branch of Federal Employes Union, No. 2, at its quarterly meeting Thursday night elected J. W. Barrett, Foreign and Domestic Commerce, president; Rexford N. Saxton, Foreign and Domestic Commerce, vice president; Mrs. Flora B. Murphy, Bureau of Mines, secretary-treasurer; Edward J. Jutz, Foreign and Domestic Commerce, and Miss Clara A. Oman, of the Census Bureau, were elected as additional members of the executive committee.

Harvey S. Clem, Edwin F. Ludwig, Rexford N. Saxton, J. W. Barrett, E. W. Skartvedt, Miss Agnes E. McKelvey, Foreign and Domestic Commerce; Samuel J. Snyder, L. P. Sissman, Patent Office; Miss Claire Sims, Mrs. Flora B. Murphy, Bureau of Mines, and Mrs. Etheri M. Winfree, Census Bureau, were elected as representatives to the board of representatives, governing body of Local No. 2.

Cyrus T. Bright, Foreign and Domestic Commerce, was appointed chairman, planning and organization committee, with these assisting: Harvey Clem, Harold Keenan, Edwin F. Ludwig, J. W. Barrett, Edward J. Jutz, Foreign and Domestic Commerce; Mrs. Ethel M. Winfree, of the Bureau of Mines, and Samuel J. Snyder, Patent Office.

The branch will meet monthly. Harold W. Keenan, Foreign and Domestic Commerce, was selected chairman, entertainment and program committee, with the following: Rexford N. Saxton, J. W. Barrett, Mrs. Flora B. Murphy, Edward J. Jute and Miss Clara A. Oman. John D. Cloud, national organizer, pointed out success achieved by War Department Local, No. 261, in its program of entertainment as a part of its business meetings. He dwelt on the need for constant membership work and pointed out some of the work ahead of the organization. He and Henry G. Nolda, secretary-treasurer of the local, congratulated the branch on its activity and pointed out that the branch had shown a net gain in membership over the previous year.

JUST KINFOLKS.

"What you doin', nigger?"
"I'se workin' for Uncle Sam."
"Can't you get a job from anybody 'cept your kinfolks?"

Maps and graphs on the captain's office wall each tells its story. There is one showing the sphere. The core (metal) is more than 2,000 miles in radius. And perhaps that bore is of gold. It has been suspected

And if we could sink a shaft and bring that metal to the surface, would it restore good times? Or would there be as much to it that it would be worthless?

Perhaps we had better not go into that.

But thanks to Capt. Heck and Capt. R. S. Patton, in charge of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, for the facts as we gathered them. They should be of interest.

ELECTION DISTRICTS BILL IS INTRODUCED

Montgomery County Cut in Commission Personnel Also Proposed.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 17.—Provision for reducing the membership of the board of county commissioners of Montgomery County from seven to five and revising the limitations of election districts therefore is embodied in a bill introduced in the House of Delegates today by Dr. George L. Edmunds, chairman of the county delegation.

This change in the county's governmental affairs has been a subject of much discussion for a long time. Under terms of the bill the new election districts would include election districts as at present constituted according to the following arrangements:

First district—Damascus district No. 12; Laytonville No. 1, and Olney No. 8. Second—Barnesville No. 11, Clarksburg No. 2, and Gaithersburg No. 9. Third—Poolesville No. 3, Darnestown No. 6, and Rockville No. 4. Fourth—Potomac No. 10, and Bethesda No. 7. Fifth—Wheat No. 13, and Colesville No. 5.

Dr. Edmunds sponsored a bill today providing for a referendum on the question of changing the salary of the Mayor of Takoma Park. Under existing law the mayor is paid $1,200 annually, including expenses. The Edmunds bill provides for a flat salary of $600. Councilmen would be paid $300 as at present, with no expense allowance. The bill also would require the clerk and treasurer of the town to furnish bond of not less than 40 per cent of the total estimated revenue for year; and also that taxes may be paid in semiannual installments in July and January.

LEGION POST BACKS VETERAN CUT PLAN

Alexandria Group Indorses Program Although Most Will Be Affected.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Unanimous indorsement of President Roosevelt's economy program was given in a resolution adopted by the executive committee of Arlington Post, No. 139, American Legion, yesterday, although most of the membership will be affected by the cuts in veterans' compensation.

A check of the 200 members of the post shows that 90 per cent of them either are receiving compensation from the Veterans' Bureau or are employes of the Federal Government.

The committee voted to interest itself more in local government and tax reform.

A campaign against billboards erected in violation of the zoning ordinance has been started by County Manager Roy S. Braden, it was learned last night. It was further learned that the county manager has refused a permit for erection of a huge billboard at the corner of Mount Vernon and Frazier avenue, Arlington Ridge. The case goes to the Board of Zoning Appeals.

In a survey made by Mr. Braden it is shown that a large number of signboards have been erected in residential areas during the last few months, and the owners have been notified to remove them.

From reports of the school committee of the Catholic Woman's Club of Arlington County in charge of serving hot lunches to the pupils of St. Charles School, at Clarendon, it is revealed that the service has been self supporting since undertaken by the club last November. This has been accomplished although approximately half of the 1,000 lunches served each month have been free to those who could not afford to buy them.

The committee in charge of serving the lunches is headed by Mrs. J. Thomas Manning, chairman, who is assisted by Mrs. E. B. Lambert, Mrs. A. B. Coleman, Mrs. J. D. Stocking, Mrs. P. C. Darcey, Mrs. L. W. Metzger, Mrs. M. Mattare, Mrs. H. Milks, and Mrs. A. Kirchner.

Christian Science Churches

"Matter" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The Golden Text is from Isaiah, 26:13: "O, Lord our God, other lords beside thee have had dominion over us; but by thee only will we make mention of thy name." Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Praise ye the Lord: Blessed is the man that feareth the Lord, that delighteth greatly in his commandments. Wealth and riches shall be in his house, and his righteousness endureth forever. He shall not be afraid of evil tidings; his heart is fixed, trusting in the Lord." (Psalms 112: 1, 3, 7).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Text Book, "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "To ascertain our progress, we must learn where our affections are placed and whom we acknowledge and obey as God. If divine Love is becoming nearer, dearer, and more real to us, matter is then submitting to Spirit. The objects we pursue and the spirit we manifest reveal our standpoint and show what we are winning." (Page 239.)

COSTS OF FARM RELIEF.

Much of the opposition to President Roosevelt's farm relief plan is based on the fear that it may impose another heavy burden on the depleted Federal Treasury. In theory the plan is self-sustaining. It proposes to collect in taxes on the processors of agricultural crops as much as would be required to pay the contemplated bounties to farmers. But, of course, there can be no guarantee that the proposed taxes will measure up to this expectation.

Farm prices are now extremely low. It is the purpose of the bill to establish the same relationship between farm and industrial prices that existed before the war. To accomplish that result a tax would be levied upon the processing of staple crops equal to the difference between the current price and the desired price. It is feared, however, that such exorbitant taxes on foods may result in reduced consumption. To avoid this possibility the Secretary of Agriculture would be authorized to lower taxes to a point where domestic consumption of the product in question could be maintained. In some instances this might result in almost negligible taxes.

It is obvious, too, that a considerable part of these special taxes on foods will have to be used to pay the administrative expenses of the proposed Emergency Agricultural Adjustment Administration. The central objective of this plan seems to be reduction of the acreage planted to staple crops. Regardless of how that is effected, it will require a large administrative force.

If the Secretary of Agriculture were limited in the payment of bounties and benefits to the amount of money collected through the special taxes, minus the cost of administration, the farmers might be disappointed. But under the act as submitted to Congress he would not be so limited. He would be authorized "to provide for rental or benefit payments * * * in such amounts as the Secretary deems fair and reasonable, to be paid out of any monies available for such payments." This would seem to put almost no limit upon the generosity of the Secretary.

In a later section it is provided that the Secretaries of Agriculture and the Treasury shall estimate the amounts needed to pay rentals, bounties and administrative expenses. "The Secretary of the Treasury," says the bill, "shall advance to the Secretary of Agriculture the amounts so estimated. The amount of such advance shall be deducted from such funds as subsequently become available" from the special taxes. In clear language this says that the anticipated receipts could be spent before they were collected. Due to the uncertainty of the proposed taxes on foods the Treasury might be left with another gaping deficit.

Anxiety on this point is keen because of the tremendous demands for relief funds. The United States has nearly 400,000,000 acres of crop lands. If the rental plan were used to cut down acreage 10 per cent, at about $5 per acre, the cost would amount to $200,000,000. Such a reduction of acreage would not reduce crop production by anything like 10 per cent because only the least fertile land would be leased. If the contract method should be used, no estimate of the cost seems practicable.

Since this plan is admitted to be an experiment, the least Congress could do is to limit experimentation to the special funds provided for. Authority to draw upon the ordinary receipts of the Treasury for such purposes might involve the Government in grave difficulties similar to those from which it is now trying to escape through the emergency economy act.

TO FINISH THE PROGRAM.

According to present plans Congress will remain in session for dispatch of additional legislation to be proposed by the President, all of it regarded by him as emergency in character. The program, when enacted, will effect great economies, inaugurate farm relief, put unemployed men to work on a considerable scale, improve the railroad situation, accomplish banking reforms, and enable the Executive to co-operate with foreign countries in denying war munitions to countries now engaged in hostilities. It is hoped that this program can be completed by the end of May.

President Roosevelt is expected to submit to Congress without delay a plan for relieving unemployment. It will not take the form of a proposed bond issue, but will be based upon assistance from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Forestation and roadbuilding are supposed to be the principal work to be undertaken.

Railroad legislation, framed for the purpose of enabling railroads to cope with their present difficulties, is urgently needed, not only for the sake of the railroads, but for the encouragement of many lines of business dependent upon the prosperity of railroads. Unemployment could be ameliorated in various directions by putting the railroad regime in better condition.

Mr. Roosevelt is determined to make it more difficult and dangerous for speculators to rob the people. Congress is responsive to his wishes in this matter. Banking legislation is to be pushed, not in one measure, but by separate acts calculated to stabilize banking, to divorce "security" affiliates from commercial banks, and to protect depositors by more stringent Federal regulation.

Congress should authorize the President to co-operate with other governments in placing an embargo upon arms in certain cases. The United States is in an equivocal position when it frowns upon aggressive treaty-breaking hostilities and then facilitates war by selling arms. Arms-exporting nations can do much to discourage war by denying to warmakers the means of waging war. The selfishness of munitions makers and aviation concerns should not be permitted to control the policy of the United States in co-operating with other nations to prevent war. This is a matter that should be placed entirely in the hands of the President, so that he may shape America's foreign policy in obedience to the will of the people.

The President and the leaders in Congress agree that Congress should not take a recess until urgent business has been done. The country is delighted with this program. Public reassurance is becoming not only solid confidence, but enthusiasm in hailing the prospect of early recovery. Congress should strike while the iron is hot.

TWO-CENT POSTAGE.

Postmaster General Farley is inquiring into the economics of postage rates. He recognizes the fact that public opposition to 3-cent letter postage is very strong. If it should appear that restoration of the 2-cent rate can be effected without loss of revenue Mr. Farley will recommend the reduction.

The relative shrinkage of revenue resulting from increased letter postage seems to have been proved. But even if 3-cent postage yielded as much as 2-cent postage, the reduction should be made, in conformity with public opinion. The people are not demanding that the Postoffice department should make the public convenience subordinate to balancing the postal budget. Cheap and reliable service, conducted according to the people's habits and convenience, is more likely to prove remunerative than a more costly service. Use of the mails should be encouraged as a bond between Americans, uniting them in a democracy of intercourse. As business improves the postal deficit will be a small item, perhaps disappearing altogether. But 3-cent postage will remain an irritant until it is abolished.

U. S. WORKERS AID ECONOMY.

Government employes deserve high commendation for the manner in which they have responded to the economy bill. Even before that measure had been passed by the House of Representatives Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes, expressed the willingness of that organization to co-operate with the Government in meeting the emergency. The American Federation of Federal Employes has taken the same attitude. John Arthur Shaw, president of this group, says that Government workers are "proud to make the sacrifice."

This position does not constitute any change in the attitude of Federal employes toward salary reductions. But it shows an intelligent understanding of the predicament in which the Government is placed and a willingness to make temporary sacrifices during the emergency in the interests of the entire country. The associations of Government workers have simply taken the long-range point of view.

Government salaries are too low. In the so-called boom period it was recognized that the Government was paying less for many types of service than was private industry. Since that time Government workers have been denied a considerable percentage of their salaries through administrative and executive furloughs, and various privileges which added to the attractiveness of Government jobs have been suspended. The normal increase in salaries has been denied. Yet for the most part the efficiency of the service rendered has made notable gains.

A few weeks ago most employes felt that they should not be called upon for further sacrifices for the sake of balancing the budget. But the grave crisis of the last fortnight convinced them that drastic economies were essential to preserve the credit of the Government.

President Roosevelt and members of Congress are no doubt deeply grateful for the support which the economy measure has been given by the employes' organizations. In appreciation of this cooperation they may be expected to restore Federal salaries at the earliest possible time. A cut is to be made only because an alarming deficit has accumulated. The abuses which have grown up in the awarding of pensions do not extend to the Federal pay roll. As soon as the emergency has passed, therefore, Government workers may look forward to restoration of their normal salaries.

CLEARING AWAY DELUSIONS.

In at least one respect the banking crisis through which this country has just passed has had a salutary effect. It has awakened Europe to the fact that the United States has serious problems of its own. The statesmen of Europe as well as the press and the public have been inclined to view the United States as a great, wealthy and selfish country which is trying to escape an obligation to help Europe out of difficulties. That feeling grew up during the war, and it has been magnified since the war. European peoples who have been misled into believing that the United States had a corner on wealth and prosperity have not been able to understand why Uncle Sam should balk at European plans to have him pay the war debts. They have had virtually no understanding of the difficult problems with which this country is confronted.

Depression in the United States has not, of course, escaped the attention of the European public. But there has been a tendency to regard the situation here merely as the bursting of a speculation bubble in Wall Street and a diminution of foreign trade. When the United States came face to face with a banking and monetary crisis on March 3, Europe was surprised and shocked. The argument that the American people should pay the debts of Europe "for their own salvation" has been abandoned.

Public opinion in France especially has changed. The hostility of the Chamber of Deputies when it refused to pay the December installment of France's war debt has been notably softened. There is a tendency now to regard the default as a mere postponement of the annuity. Reports from Paris indicate that the installment may be paid as a preliminary to the forthcoming negotiations.

Events of the last fortnight have undoubtedly put the United States in a better position to enter the debt negotiations and the world economic conference. The attitude of foreign powers seeking concessions at the expense of the American people must change to an attitude of nations consulting together for their mutual advantage. Europe should now be able to see the absurdity of trying to unload her burdens upon the United States. This clearing of the atmosphere should be no less salutary in the international field than it has been in business, finance and industry within this country.

Pending the Senate investigation, choice offerings of new foreign bonds by private bankers will wait around the corner.

Harry Englebright has been named Republican whip of the House, and now all he needs is somebody to whip.

Add similes: As naive as a congressman who would deny reports of a fight between two Missouri Democrats.

THE AMERICAN SPIRIT

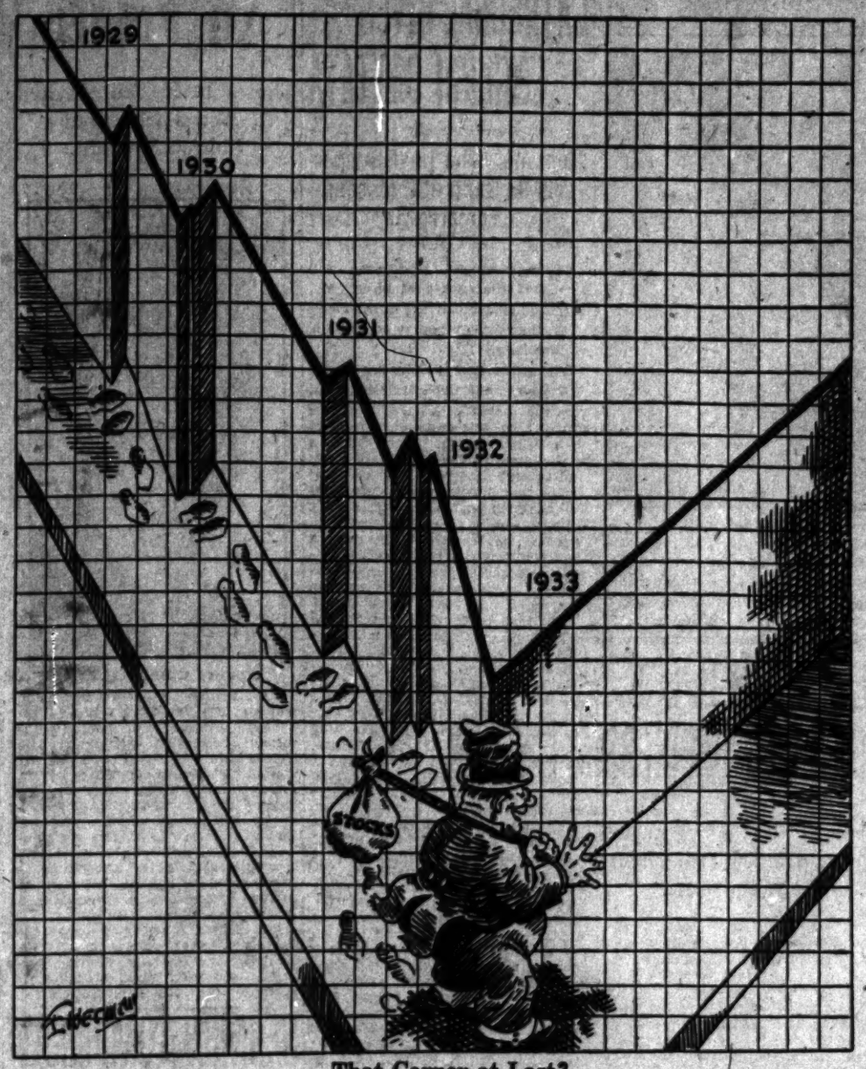
From the Topeka Capital.

An English writer, F. Yeats-Brown, after a lecture tour which carried him from New York to Los Angeles, takes off his hat to what he discovered to be "the American spirit." In an article in the London Spectator the British visitor disposes of the theory that it is not "mere American optimism" which has enabled the people to endure unexpected and unexampled adversities, wrecked fortunes believed to be invincibly secure, and severe personal hardships, but "an immense reserve force, capable of enduring and overcoming difficulty, and not to be long defeated by bewilderment."

"It is not true," the British writer advises his fellow countrymen, "that the 'Americans are squealing about hard times.' They are surprised, stunned even, but not squealing." He found the spirit of humor intact. He encountered men who had lost fortunes, chauffeurs whose small savings in the bank were gone, teachers who had not been paid, taking it with heads up, ready to smile and to joke. A friend told him: "Several of my friends have gone broke this year, and it is queer how anxious they are while waiting for each crash to come, and how happy they are when they know they are ruined. It's the uncertainty that gives them the jitters. When the worst comes, that's that."

The English lecturer calls it "the Nordic spirit," admires it partly, no doubt, because he sees in it something that is English also. He was thrilled at the start by New York, with its half empty but wholly imposing great skyscrapers. "True these great buildings were now half empty," he says, "but at the risk of being obvious I must say that I stood in rapt admiration of the plan and execution, and felt convinced that the spirit that has carried up these towers to heaven will triumph over the present depression."

The country admires the spirit in which President Roosevelt has tackled his immense job. But the spirit in which the country declares its confidence in him and rallies to his support is what will smash the depression in due time, and rebuild a truer prosperity than the past has seen.



That Corner at Last?

POST HASTE.

All of us present and ex-Army and Navyites temporarily fighting together against physical ills are preparing to turn farmer when we get out, as the surest way in sight to get more pay for doing less.

Reference is made to the Agricultural William; we wouldn't be so presumptuous as to refer to such royalty as Bill.

Say what you like about it, it is a queer principle for America to propose that a farmer shall be given a bonus for decreasing production, the one sure remedy for his own low prices.

Uncle Sam is out to do some wholesale altruistic lessing and will insist upon taking your poorest land.

If you turn out a finished product you are out of luck. Nature in the raw is to be milder; let some one else do the processing and take your cut.

Reestablishing the prewar purchasing power of 6,000,000 farmers finds about 60,000,000 wishing they were included, but hoping the farmers will provide the promised leaven.

It hasn't been decided yet whether the rise in commodity prices is due to buoyant anticipation of agricultural aid, or a determination to demonstrate they are not yet suppliants for national charity.

Nobody can accuse the Smith plan of luring the cotton planters into a gambling scheme. They are given a sure thing, one way bet with no obligation to take it up if they lose.

If the same principle can be applied to stock and commodity markets we can all get rich without risks, with every one willing to reduce production for the privilege of taking options.

Congress has been making speed records, but if it assembles the agricultural omnibus and gets it running for spring travel on the farm it can sell the patent to Henry Ford.

One thing is certain—the new farm program precludes the possibility of there being any unemployment among certified accountants, expert mathematicians, lightning calculators and ordinary plug figurers.

Agreement as to the only way to assure better farm prices is as unanimous as popular opinion that the farmer won't do it without a cash guarantee from the Government.

If there is any question as to whether czaristic powers will be sufficient for Secretary Wallace, it might be recalled that a member of the family wrote extensively of the coming of the Fair God.

How are they going to appease goober peas for not being included among the "basic commodities," when they do more processing than a deputy sheriff?

Don't blame the vets this time if it looks like taking away from them to give it to the farmers.

ENGLISH DRIVERS' TEST.

A London psychological laboratory now examines motor car drivers for judgment and nerve reaction in emergencies. The man "drives" a dummy car placed before a motion picture of an oncoming road, according to Colliers', and as the different exigencies and obstacles confront him, the details of his operating skill are automatically recorded on a chart.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN

My dear Louise: Like all redheads and a great many other people, you have the courage or stubbornness to form your own opinions and stick to them in defiance of the world.

That is a good trait. It shows self-reliance and independence.

But there is danger in it, too. An intelligent man in the wrong does much more harm than a fool in the wrong. Defending your opinions isn't commendable unless the opinions are.

If you were traveling in China you wouldn't eat lettuce until you were sure it came from California instead of the filth-fed gardens of the natives. Isn't your mind as important as your stomach? Why give an idea permanent lodging in your head before you have tested and proved it?

Nearly all people are honest in their opinions. They have reason to believe as they do. If their opinions seem incredibly dumb, the fault is in the material of which the opinions were made.

Take, for example, the opposite opinions of vaccination.

One person knows that smallpox, a dreadful scourge before vaccination became general, is now a rare and relatively mild disease. He knows that typhoid, once common and fatal, is rare since medical science found a serum to give immunity. And, knowing these things, he has a sane and logical faith in vaccination.

Another person, equally honest and equally sane, has no acquaintance with disease statistics, but has seen three children die of typhoid soon after taking the serum and himself has lost an arm as the result of smallpox vaccination. Moreover, he knows that any person who escapes disease after vaccination might have escaped in any case. And he "knows" that vaccination is wrong, cruel and barbarous.

That's the way opinions are made. The ignorant are people who have heard the wrong story or only one side of the right one.

Wrong opinions are vermin that you pick up unawares. Watch out for them. Never accept an idea or an alleged fact until you have checked up on it and examined both sides under a microscope.

Opinions make the man—or the girl. And hearsay usually makes the opinions. If you would avoid seeming dumb don't let an opinion park until you examine its license. Love, DAD.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Cabinet Hats

Kansas City Times.

The new administration is pledged to rigid economy. It should be a simple matter for the leaders of the administration, at least Cabinet members, to adjust their personal requirements to the times. This matter of high Cabinet hats and low motor cars has bobbed up again. Postmaster General Farley dented his topper when he entered a taxicab. His predecessor had similar experiences, and ordered a new and higher car to accommodate his hat, rather than adopt a hat that would accomodate the car. Postmaster General Brown was pretty roundly criticized. He made a departure that must not become a precedent, at least not in a Democratic administration, seeing that Mr. Brown is a Republican.

There is one member of the Cabinet who will not have any car-hat difficulties. Miss Perkins, Secretary of Labor, following the prevailing mode in millinery, will find room to spare, even if she should ride in a baby Austin. If the men in the Cabinet should persist in wearing high hats, and should follow the Brown example, then the Roosevelt economy program might admonish the substitution of women for all men in the Cabinet.

Muzzle the Debaters.

Morris (Minn.) Tribune.

Muzzle the debaters. Various governors and self-appointed leaders are taking advantage of the present crisis to air their views on pet plans for the present emergency. The leadership of the country has been duly vested in President Roosevelt and his party majority in Congress, and we hope he exercises full authority, and properly bosses Congress into doing his bidding, with a few extra cracks of the whip for the renegade Republicans who were never loyal Republicans and will be the first to kick over the traces of the Democratic harness.

Presidential Strategy.

Burlington Free Press.)

The President's beer message is said to have been a surprise to nearly everybody. He apparently intends to keep striking while the iron is hot, or, in other words, to get through as much legislation as possible while he is riding on the crest of the wave of popularity and before members of Congress get completely embroiled in new controversies.

Safeguard Inland Waterways.

Houston Post.

The wisdom of ratifying the treaty with Canada, providing for joint action by Canada and the United States in improving the St. Lawrence River, is seriously open to question for a number of reasons. On the whole it looks as though Canada stands to get more benefit from the deepened St. Lawrence than this country would get, notwithstanding this country is being asked to foot most of the bill for the development.

But the treaty should not be ratified at all unless that clause in it relating to regulating of diversion of water from Lake Michigan at Chicago is omitted, or modified in such a way that there never will be any difficulty in securing enough water from the lake to give adequate depth to the Lakes-to-the-Gulf waterway, the inland waterway which, when completed, will extend from Chicago to New Orleans, Houston and Brownsville.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Innovations in British Telephone Service—Agency to Take Calls in Subscriber's Absence.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The English public will now hear soft, sweet tones of a woman's voice instead of the mechanical throbbing which indicates a number is busy. In a radio address Postmaster General Sir Kingsley Wood told of innovations shortly to be introduced in the telephone system of Great Britain. Automatic responses have been reproduced on records which invariably answer in dulcet and unruffled tones, "Number engaged," as the new busy signal. The unknown voice which has been used in the making of the records has already been nicknamed "Tallulah of the Telephone" by postoffice officials.

A new department has also been established which will serve as a "home for unanswered calls." Subscribers to the department when leaving their homes or offices may call their local exchange and ask to have incoming calls transferred to an agency, which will take messages and repeat them to the subscriber after he has quoted a private identification number. Operators receiving messages will be sworn to secrecy.

The world's telephone system, Sir Kingsley pointed out, makes it possible for an individual subscriber to communicate with 95 per cent of the telephone users throughout the world. The last year has brought into communication subscribers in various isolated parts of South America and Africa, and a new service with India is to be opened. C. F. C.

Japan Must Expand or Starve—Wants Coal and Iron of China.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The "unofficial" Sino-Japanese War now going on is loaded with TNT as regards the stability of our western civilization. The Japanese must find an outlet for their rapidly increasing population; Korea and Formosa will not long suffice them.

Tillable land in Japan is now so valuable there are no line fences, as we see them in America—one man's crops growing close up to his neighbor's. The writer sailed through the famous Inland Sea of Japan by daylight and saw the hills terraced to the tops, or as far as possible to get earth for tillage.

Japan must expand or starve; and history records no military people as folding its hands and tamely submitting to fate, or as controlling its birthrate.

Then, too, there is something else that, I believe, is a factor in this war—the control of the extensive iron and coal areas of northern China. Our Western civilization is built on iron—not gold. The known iron ores of Europe and North America, with contiguous coal for smelting, will last only a little over a century. South America, Africa and Australia are practically destitute of iron and coal. China has plenty of both.

The combined populations of China and Japan are nearly half a billion persons—practically one-quarter of humankind. A century or two hence, with them in control of the remaining iron and coal, will they not be in a position to call the tune for the rest of us? LESLIE E. DENNISON.

Average Citizen Delighted With New Postoffice Pen Points—Signs of a New Deal.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Referring to the policy of the Postoffice Department, as promulgated by Mr Evans, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, to see that patrons of postoffices are provided with usable pens it is refreshing to Mr. Average Citizen to find that he has some friends in official circles who intend to have him supplied with suitable instruments when he transacts business connected with the postoffice.

By this gesture it seems that all provisions for help and comfort will not be confined to high officials with fine furniture, rare office rugs and high ceilinged motor cars, but that the common run of humanity will receive some recognition from the powers that be.

This it is hoped will serve to offset some of the discontent generated by the increase in letter postage and that the hopes for additional courtesies will be fulfilled.

THE BLUE SPRUCE.

That Colorado spruce you see,
Well, he's a friend o' mine,
For he's been growing old with me
These last eight years or nine.
And every spring for my delight
He dons a silver dress
And seems to add unto his height
A foot or slightly less.

Some call him Colorado blue,
With that I quarrel not.
I only know whate'er his hue
I like his ways a lot.
Sturdy and straight and tall he stands
Against what winds may blow,
And sometimes holds his arms and hands
To catch the falling snow.

When our acquaintance first began
I'm sure he looked at me
And wondered if I were a man
Who could befriend a tree.
But as the weeks and months slipped by Such doubting was destroyed,
And under clear or stormy sky
Each other we've enjoyed.

I never walk about the place
But what I stop to chat.
Sometimes I tell him to his face,
"Old boy, you're getting fat!"
And sometimes, in his friendly way,
That spruce looks down on me.
"You're not as slim," he seems to say,
"As once you used to be."

WHAT SHOULD SOUTH BID?

MR. BORGE ROSING, of Mount Vernon, Ohio, wrote me the other day about a 100-rubber match between four players, two of whom used the Culbertson system and two of whom used a variation of the Culbertson system, which includes an artificial club bid known in Ohio as the Boland Club convention. In this connection he submitted a hand played in one of the rubbers, and asked me for an analysis of the bidding, particularly as regards North and South.

South dealer.

North and South vulnerable.

East and West not vulnerable; part-score 60.

South	West	North	East
1◇(1)	2♡(2)	4◇(3)	5♣(4)
5♡(5)	6♡(6)	7◇(7)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—The hand, it is true, contains only 2½ honor-tricks, but it has a wealth of playing-tricks if diamonds should be trump. South can well afford to make an effort to defend against East and West's part-score and prevent them from buying a cheap contract.

2—A game bid.

3—Fully justified by the 4 honor-tricks and splendid support in diamonds, even with the balanced distribution.

4—East fears a slam, and quite correctly injects this nuisance bid.

5—In view of North's jump, South is fully justified in bidding five hearts, which is the equivalent of a six-diamond bid, with the additional information that there are no losers in the heart suit.

6—Not vulnerable, West should defend, particularly in view of the fact that his partner has entered the bidding.

7—North has very important additional values—namely, the knowledge that there should be no club losers. The bid of seven diamonds should be made.

As a matter of fact, East and West should probably defend against the Grand Slam in diamond by bidding seven hearts, at which contract they would be defeated only four tricks, and against which they have an offset of the honor score of 100. But the question submitted to me was not what East and West's defense should be, but what North and South should bid. I think it is quite clear that they should have bid the Grand Slam, even with the strong probability that they will never be permitted to play it. South, of course, in bidding five hearts, does face the possibility of duplication of values, but this risk is slight, as, in that event, North, instead of bidding four diamonds, had he held tops in hearts, would quite conceivably have bid three hearts, in which case, of course, South should not bid the Grand Slam, but prefer the smaller, but more certain, bonus to be secured by defeating the opposing bid.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS.

HANDS ARE NUMB.

MRS. C. S. writes: I am 42 years old, the mother of four children. Every day, working around the house, my hands become numb. Can you tell me the cause?

REPLY.

It may result from pressure on the nerves in your neck, your shoulders, or in the uper arm, including the elbow.

SPOTS BEFORE EYES.

J. E. W. writes: I have something the matter with my left eye. It came all at once. A black spot floats over it from the top of the eye to the outer edge, follows the eyeball as it turns, and at night there are flashes like lightning from the top center out to the side of the left of the eye. There is no pain and I can see as good as ever. I had a bad cold in my head and sneezed quite hard. The eyes ran for two days and then stopped, and the spots came. I write quite a little under an electric light.

REPLY.

Floating spots are pretty near universal among adults. Almost anybody who has the time and inclination can see them. Watching them is one way to kill time—about as good as working puzzles.

In rare instances they are of significance and particularly when there are also flashes of light.

In these circumstances they may indicate glaucoma. Some retinal trouble is possible. You should find out if you have any trouble.

SO THIS IS RENO

Letters of a Capital Society Divorcee to Her Mother

Dearest Mother: Nathalie and Anne left for California today and Josephine McIntyre went straight to New York. I slept in her room last night, as she was a little nervous with her big day ahead. I miss her terribly, as we visited each other's rooms three or four times a day and I couldn't help crying when the Overland pulled out. I am always seeing the train off and being left behind. She arrived a week after I and here I am still waiting for my papers. The lawyers buoy my hopes up one day and blast them the next. No fault of theirs, of course, as both of my lawyers are as sweet and sympathetic as can be, but after all it is up to Reggie. I am on the hope wave again today, though, as the last news from Reggie's lawyer was an inquiry as to the names of Reno counsel.

I forgot to tell you that Joe's father (he is a former ambassador) had a mutual friend write a letter to the judge about her. So, of course, we have met him. Seen quite a little of him, in fact. He is a dear and affectionately known to his intimates as "Judgie." He says it is a real sorrow to him to lose (at least in the space dimension) the friends he becomes so attached to. Some day he is going to write a book on his experiences as a Reno judge, and it should make prodigally interesting reading. Sincere as he is broad in his views on marriage, he does not believe that any two people should continue living together when they no longer care for each other. And he confirmed my own impression that there is very little bitterness out here and it is the exception to find a woman who is not a good sport about her troubles. Much love,

ELIZABETH.

Stocks' Retreat From Gains Laid to Speculative Buying

Losses of 2.3 Points Trim Recent Rises; Sales, 1,726,580 Shares.

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—A partial retreat from the advanced positions occupied on Wednesday and Thursday occurred on most financial fronts today.

Speculative markets were presumably due for a reaction, since so feverish a rise as had been experienced in this week's trading seldom continues without inroads by profit-takers. Confusion over proposed farm relief legislation appeared partly responsible, and stocks during the afternoon turned sympathetically downward after early uneasiness. Losses ranged from fractions to 2 points or so, with a few exceptions. Sales, 1,726,580 shares, were little more than half yesterday's volume.

Realizing found buyers less responsive on Thursday. In the last hour bids were lower noticeably, and the closing tone was heavy. Losses of 2 points, or slightly larger, occurred in American Telephone, Union Pacific, Consolidated Gas, American Can, Allied Chemical and Public Service of New Jersey, while U. S. Steel, Westinghouse, Du Pont, National Biscuit, Woolworth, North American and Santa Fe sagged 1 to nearly 2. Case lost 4. Rails fought the trend for a while, but finally sold off. The "wet" issues looked rather subdued, though some sugars and the gold mining group established and held higher prices.

Striking evidence of the move back to normalcy in credit markets was provided by the Federal Reserve statistics and by the consequent droop of money rates. With currency circulation down $269,000,000 and the central banking system's gold stock up $327,238,000 higher, it was obvious that the enormous strain had lifted, perhaps even more quickly than had seemed probable.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Fri.	Thurs.
Advances	138	482
Declines	397	131
Unchanged	105	112

Stocks.

A retreat was made from higher ground attained under speculative buying. An average loss of 2.3 points followed in lighter trading. Sales totaled 1,726,580 shares.

Bonds.

Loans maintained a firm undertone and staged a rise of three-tenths of a point in spite of profit taking. The trading volume decreased to $11,377,000.

Curb.

The curb slipped to lower levels under stress of profits sales. Trading slowed down, and the turnover declined to 220,000 shares.

Wheat.

Doubts of traders on the proposed farm relief legislation gave wheat and other grains a setback. Prices dropped. May wheat sold at 53 to 53¼ cents.

Cotton.

The market reacted. Uncertainties as to farm relief action and drops on other exchanges were blamed. May sold at 6.45. The general market was down 30 to 36 points. Liverpool reported offerings absorbed by straddle buying.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—The stock exchange was quieter today. Gold mining shares were the best feature of the market, improving on better labor news. Old-dealing securities were steadily supported by investors. Industrials and German bonds suffered on realizing and transatlantic issues reacted in sympathy with the easier Wall street opening. International nickel was a firm exception. The market closed irregular.

Paris—Prices on the bourse moved irregularly today and trading was inactive. Attention was turned from Wall street and focused on the international negotiations at Geneva. The closing tone remained irregular.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse closed firm on expectations of a reduction in the bank rate.

BONDS CLIMB AGAIN; DEFY PROFIT-TAKING

Three-Tenths Gain Recorded as Sales Decline to $11,377,000.

In the adjustment process, following two days of the most sweeping advances ever recorded by listed loans, the trading volume diminished sharply. Sales totaled only $11,377,000, par value, against $14,953,000 yesterday. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds edged up 3-10 of a point, compared with a gain of 1.7 points in the preceding session.

The United States Government department, aided by the further easing of money rates and indications that the administration's drastic economy program would be put through, made the best showing. Prices of the Federals moved up 2-32 to 28-32 of a point with the turnover expanding late in the afternoon. The low-coupon Treasuries were in the greatest demand.

American and International Telephone issues reacted a point or more, although they still held a large portion of their previous gains. Studebaker 6s dropped 4 points and Sinclair Oil 6½s lost 1. Tobacco company bonds were firm and U. S. Rubber 5s moved up 1½ points. Some of the moving picture company issues were rather heavy.

Declines in the German group of 1 to 2 or more points reflected some uncertainty regarding the attitude which the new president of the Reichsbank, Hjalmar Schacht, will take toward the maintenance of the country's foreign debt service. French 7½s eased, as did Italian 7s and some of the Japanese. British 5½s lost half a point. Other foreign loans were irregular and quiet.

SILK MARKET.

U. S. Has Favorable Balance Of $17,000,000 in Commerce

(Associated Press.)

The United States had a favorable trade balance of $17,000,000 in February, exporting $100,000,000 worth of merchandise and importing $83,000,000 worth.

The balance compared with $24,584,000 in January, when $120,593,000 worth of merchandise was sent abroad and $96,009,000 imported.

For the two months of the present year, the favorable trade balance has amounted to $41,584,000, with exports of $220,593,000 and imports of $179,009,000. In the same period of the 1932 year the favorable trade balance amounted to only $37,474,000.

The United States gained $8,860,000 in gold during February with exports of $21,521,000 and imports of $30,381,000. For the two months of the present year the gold increase has amounted to $137,326,000 with exports of $21,535,000 and imports of $158,861,000. In the similar period of 1932 the United States lost a total of $163,518,000.

The United States also gained $663,000 of silver, exporting $194,000 and importing $857,000 of the metal.

The exports by the United States in February were the smallest since 1904 when they amounted to $92,254,000.

American Tobacco Gives Salary Data

Officers Receive Smaller Pay Than in 1931; Stock Status.

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—Salaries drawn by American Tobacco Co. officials last year and details of the employes' stock subscription plan of 1930, which has been the subject of controversy among stockholders are set forth in pamphlet sent to stockholders by George W. Hill, the company's president. Mr. Hill disclosed that his total compensation last year was $789,500 or $262,700 less than he received in 1931. He listed his salary at $120,000 and additional compensation at $669,500. In 1931 salary was $160,000 and additional compensation $891,570.

Charles F. Nelley and Vincent Riggio, vice presidents, whose fixed salaries last year were $50,000 each, received additional compensation totaling $401,700.

Concerning the subscription plan permitting the purchase by certain employes of common stock at $25 a share, the pamphlet said: "If the stock is sold to employes at or near the market, any small drop will disorganize and disturb the efficiency of the employe. At how much less than the market it should be sold is a difficult question.

Foreign Exchange Falls Before Dollar

French Francs Suffer Heaviest Loss in Several Days.

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—Foreign exchange rates declined rather sharply today in relation to the American dollar. European gold currencies especially reflected the apparent reversal of sentiment abroad regarding the fiscal affairs of the United States and the Nation's banking problem.

French francs suffered their heaviest reaction in several days, dropping 1½ points to a cable rate of 3.94½ cents. This compares with a high of 3.96¼ cents in the early part of the week. Belgian belgas, Dutch guilders and Swiss francs were also in supply, their losses ranging from 2 to 4 points.

Although the British pound sterling sagged ⅜ of a cent to $3.46⅝ for cables, the premium for three-month options was quoted at 7 cents on the pound at one time. German marks fell back 5 points, Spanish pesetas lost 2 points and the Canadian dollar was off ⅜ of a cent. Scandinavians were steady and Japanese yen and Shanghai taels were a trifle higher.

COMMODITY PRICE INDEX.

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—Index of 15 staple commodity prices: Today, 88.8; previous day, 88.7; March 4, 88.9; month ago, 80.6; 1933 high, 88.7; 1933 low, 78.7; 1932 high, 101.9; 1932 low, 79.3.

CURB PRICES LOWER ON PROFITS SELLING

Trading Is Less Active as Turnover Declines to 220,000 Shares.

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—Following a logical corrective course, the curb market today slipped to a lower price plane as traders cashed in profits from the sharp advance of the two preceding days. Trading slowed down on the reaction with total transfers at 220,000 shares compared with 380,000 on Thursday.

Stocks were offered most freely in departments which led in the earlier buoyancy. Many of the utilities backed up 1 to 2 points. Such losses were shown in Electric Bond & Share, American Gas & Electric, Columbia Gas & Electric preferred and Commonwealth Edison.

Chain store stocks, food issues, chemicals, coppers and the miscellaneous groups were equally affected by the realizing, and some of the closely held varieties showed wider losses. Great Atlantic & Pacific, which is subject to wide swings, dropped 8 points, thus wiping out a large part of the recent gain.

Deere, Swift issues, American Cyanamid B, Aluminum Co. of America and some other popular trading mediums, gave up from fractions to 2 points.

A fair number of stocks managed to forge ahead in the face of selling. Most of these had tight markets, easily influenced by small bids. Dow Chemical jumped more than 5 points, Long Island preferred 3, Fajardo Sugar 3, and Cuban Tobacco 2. On a ten share transaction Quaker Oats sold 22 points above the previous sale.

REICHSBANK STATEMENT.

Berlin, March 17 (A.P.).—The Reichsbank statement as of March 15 shows the following changes in reichsmarks: Gold and bullion decreased 10,674,000; reserve in foreign currencies increased 12,694,000; bills of exchange and cheques decreased 93,592,000; silver and other coins increased 27,180,000; notes on other banks increased 2,282,000; advances decreased 3,497,000; investments increased 63,000; other assets increased 40,573,000; notes in circulation decreased 26,060,000; other maturing obligations increased 18,814,000; other liabilities decreased 6,511,000.

Total gold holdings, 738,983,000.

Note coverage, 26.1 per cent.

Rate of discount, 4 per cent.

Bankers' Acceptances Rate Cut ½ Per Cent

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—Rates on bankers' acceptances were reduced one-half of 1 per cent today on all maturities, bringing them closer in with open market money rates.

The change, made in two cuts of one-fourth of 1 per cent each, was unusually wide for this popular medium of banking credit and represented a complete reversal of conditions prevailing just before the bank holiday, when rates were raised one-half of 1 per cent in the course of a day.

The easing trend in credit was also reflected in a 3½ per cent official rate for call money, after renewals at 4 per cent, compared with yesterday's renewal rate of 5 per cent.

Bayard Colgate Named Palmolive-Peet Head

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—S. Bayard Colgate was today elected president of the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Corporation to succeed C. B. Pearce, who was named chairman of the board.

Mr. Colgate formerly was a member of the executive committee. A. W. Peet, former chairman, was made honorary chairman. Mr. Colgate's election was interpreted in Wall street quarters, as an indication of a more active part in the company's management by the Colgate interests. It was also suggested that the Colgate interests would succeed the Chicago group as the dominant factor in the company.

WHEAT VALUES DROP ON FARM AID PLANS

Traders Disturbed by News of Proposed Legislation; Other Grains Fall.

Chicago, March 17 (A.P.).—Unsettlement resulting largely from expressed doubts of many traders that proposed farm legislation would prove of benefit led to sharp setbacks in grain prices late today.

One of the foremost members of the Chicago Board of Trade, Frederick Uhlmann, a former vice president of the exchange, said the agricultural measure which President Roosevelt asked to be enacted was "the most fantastic bill ever proposed by any country in peace time."

Reports on market tickers that the House Agriculture Committee at Washington might rewrite and simplify the bill offered by President Roosevelt were only in part effectual toward checking price breaks that followed an early transient wheat market advance of 3 cents a bushel.

Wheat Almost at Bottom.

Wheat closed weak at almost the day's bottom, ¼ to ⅞ under yesterday's finish; corn, ⅛ to ⅝ off; oats, ¼ to ½ down, and provisions varying from 12 cents decline to a rise of 5 cents.

Evidence developed almost from the outset that a majority of wheat traders were disturbed as to the probable effects of President Roosevelt's plan intended to lift all agricultural commodities to higher prices.

One large grain house issued a statement that in practical application the proposed agricultural bill meant the basic value of United States wheat would be the world price and that to export the present domestic surplus the price of wheat must decline to a world level. Pending such an adjustment, caution in making wheat purchases was urged.

Contributing to wheat market weakness were profit-taking sales and downturns of securities and of cotton.

The sole grain to reach a new maximum price today was barley, up 3 cents on account of passage of the beer bill by the Senate.

COTTON PRICES CUT ON FARM AID NEWS

May Sells at 6.45 With General Market Down 30 to 36 Points.

New York, March 17 (A.P.).—Cotton reacted today following yesterday's sharp advance. May contracts, which had advanced to 6.97 early on Thursday sold off to 6.45 in today's late trading, or 32 points net lower, and closed at that level. The general market closed easy at net declines of 30 to 36 points.

The opening was 5 to 11 points lower in response to disappointing Liverpool cables, and after slight rallies, eased off under liquidation. This was coupled with Southern selling, and some through houses with Liverpool, continental and Japanese connections. The Liverpool selling was said to have come from Bombay sources.

Reactions in the grain and stock markets contributed to the afternoon decline and some stop-orders were said to be uncovered on the break to 6.38 for March and 6.82 for October, or about 31 to 36 points from yesterday's closing quotations. Last prices were at or within a point of the lowest.

Farm Aid Plans.

Uncertainty as to interpretation and progress of the new farm relief plans now was considered partly responsible for a disposition to even up commitments following yesterday's advance.

Liverpool reported a quiet market with offerings absorbed by straddle buying against sales in America. Cable advices to the New York Cotton Exchange Service reported Japanese consumption of 229,000 bales of all growths for February, compared with 216,000 for the same month last year.

According to these advices German mill activity continues irregular with a slight downward trend but continental mill circles report improvement expected from seasonal influences. Exports today 30,141, making 5,977,871 so far this season. Port receipts 26,149; U. S. port stocks, 4,451,126.

Cottonseed Oil.

Bleachable cottonseed oil was easier today under liquidation and scattered selling promoted by the weakness in cotton, grains and stocks. Final prices were 9 to 10 points net lower with sales of 10 contracts or 1,500 barrels. Bleachable spot closed 3.90, March 3.90, May 4.10, July 4.20, September 4.35.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

THIS may not be exactly the time that your thoughts gayly turn to hot summer wear, but there is more than a hint of spring in the air, now isn't there? And spring wear is something you simply have to think about, especially now that you have learned what clever things you can do with a remnant of this or that, and a yard of hemstitching, and a little imagination!

French women knew it all the time, hence their reputation for chic. And American girls are learning it rapidly—an effect of the depression which won't leave them in a hurry! Because the little, distinctive touch of handwork, indulged in spare finger time, is such an aid to chic and loveliness that once you get the idea of it you simply never give it up!

And handwork is the vogue for spring. Whether on your old winter's dark dress, or on your housedress, you can raise its tone and your own millions—with a few cents of this or that, and a few minutes of finger work. Yes, I said your winter's dress. If you simply can't see your way clear to a spring frock, think nothing of it; see your way to the scrap bag or the remnant counter instead, and get busy with your own ten fingers. There are so many new things you can add to that winter dress to make it look summery, and even brand new!

Organdy is the most all-around economical and stylish and flattering and summery fabric I know for these hand touches. You can make collars—really different ones, too, of it. You can make glove cuffs. You can make so many, many things, and lovely things, and expensive looking things, out of it. And the cotton organdy is as good as the silk organdy—it's a matter of choice, absolutely. And organdy is going to be the it of trimmings for spring and summer!

* * * *

So much so that I have made you a leaflet with a dozen different things to make out of organdy in it. Things that a child could make—with these directions, of course. Things that cost a few cents each, yet give you a million-dollar look. There is a hat, like the one illustrated today, and absolutely too cunning for words. There is a jet for evening, and different and unusual kinds of collars. Well, isn't it worth a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare Department of The Washington Post to find out? You would think so if you saw the things this leaflet tells you how to make. So better send for it and convince yourself.

Au revoir.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

MRS. H. L. E. has a very delicate type of skin and has been unable to find a skin food or tissue cream which will not cause her skin to smart and burn, though she has tried many of the well-known brands.

I can not recommend or comment upon proprietary articles, therefore I am outlining a simple formula for a lotion which should not irritate the most sensitive skin: Six tablespoonfuls of olive oil and one tablespoonful of almond oil, mixed well with one teaspoonful of tincture of benzoin. I would advise cleansing your skin with a very mild soap, either an olive oil or castile soap, and warm water, rubbing the soap into the skin gently and rinsing with clear water several times. Dry the skin carefully and apply the above mentioned lotion before retiring. Wash off remaining lotion in the morning with plain water.

D. R. S. complains that she has oily, light blonde hair and the oftener she shampoos it, the oiler it becomes. A method for keeping her hair fluffy and light is requested.

Rather than shampoo your hair so frequently, try daily brushing and scalp massage. Though this stimulation will at first seem to make your hair more oily, after persistent treatment you will find that the oil glands are functioning normally. Have a soap and water shampoo not more often than every other week. Rinse thoroughly and use diluted lemon juice in the last rinsing water. Dry shampoo, used in between the regular shampoo will be most helpful in keeping your hair light and fluffy. You can use one of the dry cleansing preparations on the market or you can make your own if you prefer. The white of egg is excellent for this purpose and is simply beaten up, applied to the hair, and when dry, brushed out.

What Today Means to You

"PISCES."

IF March 18 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:45 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 11:50 a. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6:15 p. m.

You will feel rushed and hurried on this March 18 as if constant pressure were being brought to bear on you to work more speedily and turn out a greater volume. Do not give way to this feeling lest you sacrifice excellence of work to increased output. Be wary of the opposite sex.

The child born on this March 18 will have a very happy nature and will always be expectant of good. Luck will play a great part in his life and if coupled with hard work, he should go far along life's road. He will be a real joy and pleasure to his parents.

If March 18 is the date of your birth, you are quite likely a person who enjoys being in the public eye; you thrive on the plaudits of the crowd. You may have within you some talent or talents that will enable you to attain a singular and outstanding place in your community. If not, you may stoop to effecting some eccentricity, possibly of dress or speech, that will draw the attention of others. Sincerity is not one of your virtues.

Born on March 18, you are inclined to be autocratic and dictatorial in your home. Your children are perhaps brought up to fear you rather than to love and respect you. When mingling with friends or acquaintances you are an amusing and delightful person for you have a ready tongue and a rare ability for making light conversation. You have a keen wit, but you must take care not to let it run to sarcasm for yours is of a biting and cutting nature, one that you can and do use as an effective weapon.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

The brief bodice of the jumper emphasizes the cute gathered skirt. The hem is charming scalloped. But, if you prefer, it can easily be hemmed up in the ordinary way.

Style No. 2518 is designed for sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8 years.

Size 4 requires 1⅜ yards 35 or 39 inch material for dress and ⅞ yard 35-inch material for blouse. Price of pattern, 15 cents.

In addition it contains the most interesting illustrated articles—Beauty Hints, Hairdressing, How to Reduce Sensibly, Poise as an Aid to Fashions, Dressmaking Hints, &c.

The Meanderer

Finds Easily Prepared Low Cost Foods, New Utensils and Attractive Linens.

Chicken croquettes ready to fry, and rolls ready to bake, should be a distinct help in the homemaker's busy week-end cookery. The Meanderer finds such foods all prepared for cooking at a women's farm-to-home market. Among the other prepared foods that may be acceptable for the home larder, offered by this market, include English Banbury tarts, English meta pies, graham cracker pie, bishops' hats (peaked pastry filled with sausage) and home-canned tomatoes.

Stainless, chip-proof enamel cooking utensils in several attractive colors are proving popular in a department store on Seventh street. Coffee pots in the ware are especially popular because of their stainless quality. The utensils have chrome lids, which stay bright without scouring.

A newly patented waffle iron for 35 cents makes small waffles in double-quick time. The iron is dipped into the batter and then into the hot cooking fat. The small waffle or rosettes made in this manner are often used as a base for creamed foods. The Meanderer saw the waffle irons demonstrated in a Seventh street department store.

Sugar corn and asparagus from Florida are plentiful in Washington food places, considering the season. Asparagus in thick-topped bunches has many buyers, even though the price is usually more than 50 cents a bunch.

Hemstitched linen napkins, of the firm quality all housewives like in their linen supply, sell for $2.50 a dozen in a big F street department store. The established favorite Madeira napkins, 12-inch size, are six for $1.25.

For an easily prepared family meal a chain store suggests sauerkraut and frankfurters. The kraut is priced in a special sale, four cans, 23 cents, and the frankfurters are 20 cents a pound.

Asparagus tips, two cans for 35 cents; lima beans, two cans, 25 cents, and choice peas, three cans for 43 cents are in a chain store's sale of a nationally known brand of canned foods this week.

Strawberries have increased in price over that asked during the past weeks. Today in a chain store pints of strawberries are priced at 18 cents.

A Meanderings reader who has been interested in the Turkish coffee and English tea as discussed in this column writes of Yerba mate, a South American tea, and promises the Meanderer column material on the subject.

Available in printed form are several sets of recipes furnished the Meanderer by several food authorities. The Washington Post is glad to mail these recipes, which include methods of preparing spring lamb; Italian spaghetti and antipasto, Turkish coffee, and the customary method of brewing English tea to all readers who send self-addressed, stamped envelopes for the material.

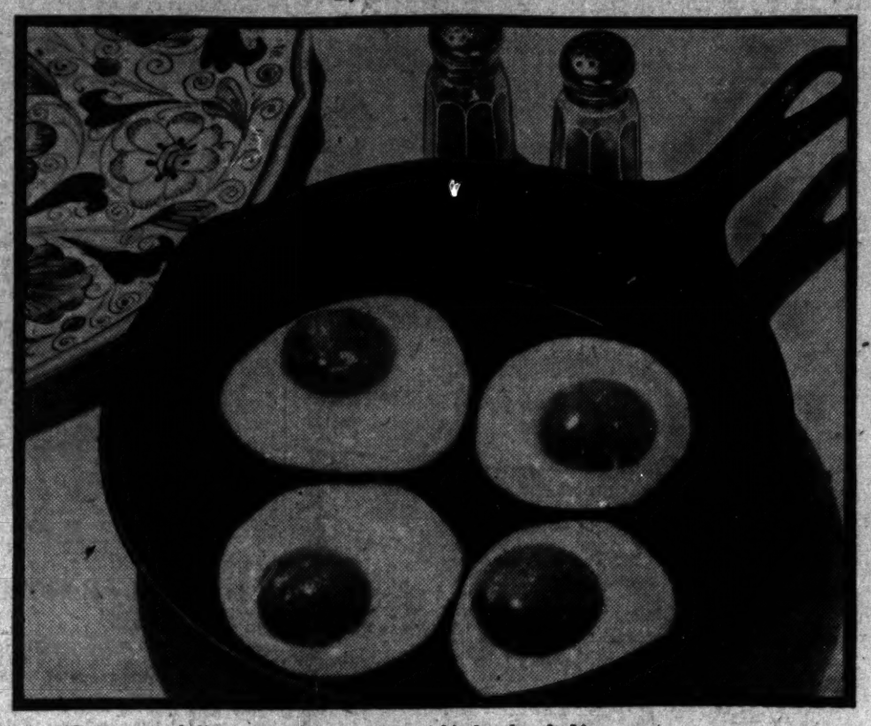
WHAT'S GOOD TO EAT

EGGS GET BIG BREAK—WITH SKY THE LIMIT ON WAYS OF COOKING

By ANN BARRETT



MOST every one believes in giving eggs a great big break. And most every one has highly personal ideas about the cooking of eggs.

They must be cooked in the shell, very soft, almost raw, for Dr. William Beebe, explorer. They must be cooked good and hard and pickled in vinegar for Irene Dunn, of the films. To please Actress Helen Hayes (and a great many other women) eggs have to be beaten up with cream in a nice scramble. (But to make a hit with the boy friends—or friend husband—don't scramble eggs with anything but more eggs. Most men hate their eggs diluted.) It takes eggs wrapped up intimately with chopped ham in a big omelet to get a glad eye from Babe Didrikson, Olympic athletic marvel from Texas. But Will Rogers demands his ham and eggs straight, with the eggs fried sunny-side-up.

So, you see, the sky's the limit, when it comes to ways of cooking eggs. And every way will be a good way, if you remember the golden rule for getting on the right side of the egg.

Cook Eggs Slowly.

That is—cook eggs slowly. When you fry them, have the pan only moderately hot—never hot enough to brown the fat or make it sizzle. When you bake them, never let the oven get hotter than 350 F. When you poach them, slide them carefully into boiling water, then take them right off the fire at once. When you scramble them, best do it in the double boiler—the flavor is more delicate. When you cook them in the shell, don't ever let them boil at all. Hard-boiled eggs are as out of date as hard-boiled people. You get just the right effect with your eggs-in-the-shell by dropping them into boiling water, then taking the pan off the fire and letting the eggs stand from 3 to 45 minutes—depending on whether you want them soft or hard. And the same rule for omelets—give 'em time, if you want them to puff instead of flop.

Omelets—Puffy or Juicy?

Speaking of omelets, this subject becomes very simple, too, when you stop to considerer there are really only two basic kinds—the very puffy, rather dry kind, and not so puffy but more moist kind. You can go puffy or moist from the same recipe. The difference lies in the way you treat the eggs. Separate the yolks from the whites and beat each very light and you get a puffy omelet (providing you cook it slowly, so as to set the eggs thoroughly). Leave the eggs whole, beat them just enough to blend the yolks and whites (as you do for scrambled eggs), and you get the moist kind of omelet.

The standard recipe for each is as follows: 6 eggs, 3 tablespoons milk or water, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper. And 1 tablespoon fat for greasing the pan.

As for the pan itself, it's very nice, of course, to have a regular omelet pan. But omelets can be turned out of a heavy fry pan as light and brown as you please, if the pan is kept absolutely clean and smooth. After the omelet is set and delicately brown on the bottom, you may cook the top in a moderate oven (350). Or cover the pan and finish cooking by steam, right on top of the stove. To get the omelet out of the frying pan without breaking it, crease it in the middle at right angles to the handle. Then fold one side over onto the other and slide it off onto a hot platter.

Omelets Glorified.

Omelets gain glory from all sorts of favorite ingredients. Mushrooms, chicken livers, cheese, tomatoes, onions, flaked fish, nuts, jelly. Some of these ingredients may be mixed right in with the eggs, in the case of the moist omelet. But with the puffy omelet, the eggs are left to get light all by themselves, and the extra ingredients are folded into the center and spread over the top after the omelet is cooked.

To make the Spanish omelet (which seems a good way to please many people) make this sauce first and serve it in the center and around either the puffy or moist omelet.

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a skillet. Add 2 tablespoons chopped onion, 3 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 1 clove garlic, 1½ cups canned tomatoes, 6 chopped olives, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon pepper. Cook these ingredients together slowly till thickened and slightly brown. Then remove the garlic and serve very hot.

POST $5 PRIZE WON BY SHAD ROE RECIPE

Miss M. Baggett Submits Formula for Making Croquettes.

The king of Potomac River food fish, or rather the queen, the roe shad, has its place in this week's Post recipe contest.

The cooking formula which won the $5 prize is "Shad Roe Croquettes." It was submitted by Miss M. Baggett, of 1019 Twenty-second street northwest.

(Awarded $5 Prize.)

4 shad roe, juice of 1 lemon
4 tablespoons butter, Sanitary
4 tablespoons flour, Sanitary
1 teaspoon salt, few grains cayenne
1 cup milk.

Boil the shad roe 15 minutes in salted water, then drain and mash. Melt the butter, add the flour and seasonings, add the milk slowly, cook until thick and smooth. Mix the roe with the sauce, cool, shape and fry.

NATS' RESERVES THUMP NEW ORLEANS FOR 11-2 WIN

Sutter Faces Mangin in Net Final

Mangin Downs Wood in U. S. Play After Losing First Set.

NEW YORK, March 17 (A.P.).—A new power in indoor tennis—Clifford B. Sutter, of New Orleans—rose today to battle Gregory S. Mangin, of Newark, defending champion, in the finals of the thirty-fourth annual tournament tomorrow on the boards of the Seventh Regiment Armory.

Playing in only his third indoor tourney, Sutter, former intercollegiate champion from Tulane, trounced Frank Shields, tall, powerful New York youngster, in five bitter sets, 2—6, 2—6, 6—3, 6—4, 6—4.

Mangin, playing through champion and a master of the indoor game though he rates none too highly outdoors, polished off Sidney B. Wood, blond former Wimbledon champion, 9—11, 6—2, 6—4, 6—4.

Sutter's Fine Play Unexpected.

The fine play of Sutter, well known outdoors where he is ranked No. 3 nationally, higher than any other player in the tournament, was unexpected on the board where he has had little practice. Shields, the knock-out star of the tournament with his terrific service and forehand drives that left his early rivals baffled and fanning at balls they couldn't see, set upon Sutter just as he had on them. For two sets he cannonaded all over the place.

But in the third set, Sutter gave up trying to match Shields' power and substituted guile. What balls he could get his racket on he shot to Shields' back court, and once a rally was on, the New Yorker's effectiveness rapidly decreased. Sutter consistently outgeneraled him, keeping him in the back court as he forged to the net for perfectly controlled placements.

Mangin Forced To Rally.

As Sutter put on pressure, Shields' power decreased. He softened his game for the sake of accuracy and was immediately at Sutter's mercy.

Mangin, an aggressive, hardfighting warrior whose game works perfectly indoors, had to come from behind in each set, after losing the first 9—11.

It was far more spectacular tennis than the Sutter-Shields match. Of rather slight physique, Wood tired after the thrilling opening set in which he came from behind while trailing 5 to 2 in games, ran off the next four, then matched service for service until he broke through Mangin to win the twentieth game and the set.

Thereafter Mangin did all the rallying. He ran off four straight games to win the second set 6—2, after trailing, 2 to 1, and took four of the last five to grab the third and final sets, and his place for the second straight year in the final round.

The unseeded doubles team of Dr. Lawrence Kurzrok and John B. Pittman, of New York, scored a second successive form reversal in the semi-finals by eliminating Wood and Edward W. Burns, of New York, one of the ranking combinations, in a hard five-set match. The scores were 6—4, 4—6, 6—1, 5—7, 7—5. Kurzrok, a hard-hitting southpaw, who scored the only upset in the earlier rounds of the singles, and his partner yesterday defeated the No. 1 seeded doubles team of Frank Shields and George Lott.

Sutter and Dr. Eugene McCauliff, of Yonkers, filled the other final doubles bracket by turning back Mangin and Berkeley Bell, 4—6, 6—3, 6—4, 5—7, 6—4.

Tomorrow's Post Will Reveal Clark Griffith's All-Star Team

The man who has been the boss of the Washington ball club for 20 years, first as manager, later as president, tomorrow will select for the thousands of participants in The Post's Baseball Contest and fans at large the players whom he has deemed outstanding in their respective positions during his two decades' affiliation with the Washington club.

Simultaneously with the announcement of Griffith's all-star lineup, The Post will announce the names of the contest winners who will attend the opening game here between the Nats and the Athletics on April 12 as guests of The Post in box seats.

Mr. Griffith will accompany his selections with detailed explanation for his choice of players in each position and none is better qualified to draw upon a fund of baseball knowledge than the Washington club president who rose from the ranks to the ownership. Watch for Mr. Griffith's article in tomorrow's Washington Post in which it will appear exclusively, and learn all the answers to the problems that have been engaging Washington fans for the past eight weeks in the efforts to match Mr. Griffith's selections.

11,000 JEER DRAW GIVEN TO JEBY

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, March 17 (A.P.).—Ben Jeby, recognized here as world middleweight champion, was given a draw by Referee Ed Forbes and two judges at the end of a 15-round title battle with Vince Dundee, of Baltimore, before a crowd of 11,000. The decision was soundly booed.

For 15 minutes after Bellerin' Joe Humphries, as surprised as everyone else in the big battle pit, announced the decision, the crowd stood around the ring and booed.

It was the first title defense of Jeby, who won his recognition as champion here by knocking out Frankie Battaglia, and for Dundee it marked the opportunity of becoming the second member of one family to hold a world title, something never before accomplished in ring history.

Dundee Warms Up After Fifth.

As far as the crowd, and the ringside critics as well, were concerned, Dundee won all by himself. Coming into the duel with a blackened left eye, Vince, brother of Joe Dundee, former welterweight champion, warmed up after a slow start to dominate the battling after the fifth round.

Snapping left jabs continually into Jeby's face, crossing him almost at will with rights to the jaw, out-generaling the champion every bit of the way from the fifth round on, Dundee seemed to have an edge in at least nine of the fifteen rounds, with Jeby winning only four, and two even.

Referee Ed Forbes voted the match a draw; Edward Farrell, one judge, cast his ballot for Jeby, and the other judge, Charlie Lynch, voted for Dundee.

Miss Orcutt Defeats Mrs. Hill in Finals

Augusta, Ga., March 17 (A.P.).—Shooting subpar golf all the way, Miss Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, N. J., today won the Augusta women's invitation golf tournament from Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, 2 up and 1.

It was the first major victory of the year for the New Jersey star, one of the ranking players of the Nation. It also enabled her to even with Mrs. Hill for a defeat she received earlier in the season in Florida.

Outdriving the Westener 30 to 40 yards on every hole, Miss Orcutt also matched the splendid short game of the Kansas City veteran.

Carr Crash Victim; Track Career Ends

Philadelphia, March 17 (U.P.).—William A. (Bill) Carr, world and Olympic 400-meter champion, was critically injured in an automobile crash at Bala, near here, tonight. He never will run again, physicians said after preliminary examination.

Carr was in an automobile with Seward H. French, jr., of Binghamton, N. Y.; Miss Anne Wickersham, of Glenside, Pa., and Miss Dorothy Gimber, of Bala. French was driving. Their car crashed with one driven by F. Joseph Roach, of Cynwyd, near here, and overturned.

Lawson Robertson, University of Pennsylvania and Olympic coach, arrived as Carr was being treated by a physician and ordered him taken to the University Hospital here. Carr's pelvis was possibly fractured. His ankle suffered a possible fracture and he was injured internally. The others escaped injury.

Pinehurst, N. C., March 17 (A.P.).—George T. Dunlap, jr., of Kew Gardens, Long Island, member of the United States Walker Cup Golf Team, and Miss Kay Vogel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Vogel, of Hempstead, Long Island, were married Tuesday in Elkton, Md., it was announced here today.

R. I. Avenue, Savoy Win Thrillers

D. and H., Bennings Girls Also Triumph at Basket Ball.

RHODE ISLAND AVENUE tossers remained in the race for the 145-pound District court championship by nosing out a fighting Northern A. C. quintet, 38-36, in a thrilling game that required an extra period to determine the winner. A large crowd saw the game played in the A. A. U. tournament, sponsored by The Post, at Tech High School.

But all the thrills were not confined to this particular game, for the Savoy 100 pounders contributed their share by nosing out the Washington Boys' Club delegates, 23-21, in a spirited fray that evaded going into an extra period by a split second.

In the other games, the Bennings Sextet gained the final round in the junior girls' division by winning over Hyattsville, 34-22, and Delaware & Hudson chalked up its second tournament triumph at the expense of Rockville, whom it defeated, 40-18.

Reichhardt in Star Role.

After [illegible] ahead in the first half to lead by a score of 15-13 at the intermission, the Northerns finally found their opponents on even terms with them. The teams battled neck and neck throughout the final period with neither able to gain a commanding lead. The score was 29-29 at the expiration of regulation time.

Reichhardt, for Rhode Island, and Mitchell for the Northerns, put on an individual scoring duel and it resulted in each scoring 16 points, but the former Tech star's points were more important to his team for it was his pair of double-deckers in the extra session that clinched the verdict for Rhode Island.

Savoy assumed a 14-11 lead in the first half of its game with the Boys Club and it was this slim margin of 3 points that enabled the eventual winners to stave off a spirited last-minute rally of the opposition.

Relying on the eagle eye of their star forward, Miss Ableman, the Bennings girls remained in the running for the junior girls' title with a well-earned victory over Hyattsville. Whitney and Taylor accounted for the remainder of the winning team's points. Other stars were Waple and Wilson, whose guarding was of high order.

Delaware and Hudson turned its entire team loose upon Rockville in swamping the latter. All had a hand in the scoring, with Cappelli and Weigel leading. Lanier, Becker and Collins were outstanding for Rockville, but their efforts were overshadowed by the brilliant team work of the eventual winners.

No games are scheduled in the tournament tonight. Play will be resumed Monday night.

New Red Sox Spirit Seen By Owners

Collins and McManus Expect Team to Figure in Race.

(This is another of a series of Associated Press stories analyzing the major league baseball club prospects for 1933.)

THE faith reputed to be strong enough to move mountains seems to have knocked all of the humility out of the Boston Red Sox as, under new ownership, they turn their eyes upward to the American League glory that they once possessed.

Although every unbiased baseball forecaster has already condemned them to another last place berth, Manager Marty McManus and his players disagree most heartily. The new owners, Tom Yawkey and the canny Eddie Collins, are a bit bewildered. They have $250,000 for immediate use in their rebuilding program, but can't make a move because some 30-odd last-place ball players are making baseball values look silly by acting like pennant contenders.

Slaughter Cardinals In South.

McManus had about eight real major leaguers on his roster when he headed South several weeks ago. Since then, however, he has worked them up, with some magical hocus-pocus, to the point where they were able to slaughter the St. Louis Cardinals, which promises to be a first-division National League club, by the one-sided margin of 6-1, despite the fact that they saw the Cards upset the Athletics only a day or so before.

The only possible explanation is that the Red Sox, for unknown reasons, have lost their inferiority complex. They are still a last-place club by all of the known baseball measurements, but then the experts have to omit such unknown quantities as faith, hope and spirit out of their reckonings.

McManus Boasts Five Starting Pitchers.

About the only definite knowledge one can acquire about the Red Sox is that they are much stronger than they were before the start of the 1932 season.

McManus has five starting pitchers in Bob Kline, Ivy Andrews, Henry Johnson, Dusty Rhodes, all right-handers, and Bob Weiland, only seasoned southpaw on the squad. He also has several promising recruits and if one or more develop, it will be just too bad for some of the other American League clubs.

The catching department, in a wretched condition for years, has taken a turn for the better with the additions of Johnny Gooch and Mervin Shea. They will have to hit, however, to get the call over Smed Jolley, Benny Tate and the reliable but weak-batting Eddie Connolly.

Batting Champion On 1st Base.

Although Dale Alexander's 210-pound frame is hardly a graceful figure to have on first base, he is the league's champion batter and no one can take it away from him. His trusty bat alone should give the Sox enough victories to keep them out of last place. Johnny Hodapp, White Sox discard, has taken a new lease on his baseball life and, if he continues as he has been going to date, will be a fixture at second base.

Greg Mulleavy, obtained from Chicago last season, seems to have the edge at shortstop, and McManus, himself, plans to hold down third base unless Benny Friberg, out of the National League for the first time in 13 years, regains his old-time form. There are several other infielders on the Red Sox's premises who are praying for the lightning to strike them.

Bob Fothergill In Outfield.

The Boston outfield shapes up fairly well and the brunt of this work will probably be cared for by

Speaker, in Biloxi, Voices Frank Opinions About Nats

BILOXI, March 17.—As gray as Clark Griffith, old Tris Speaker, one of the immortals of baseball, has been in camp for the past few days trying to wheedle a player or two out of Griffith for service with Kansas City, which he will manage this coming season. Tris and cavern-mouthed Joe E. Brown own the club between them. Tris has never seen one of the players he'll be nursemaid for this year.

He has had no success with Griff, but he lingers on around here, talking far into the night with the Old Fox, recalling memorable moments from one of the greatest careers ever achieved in the game. He shows up early for practice every morning, and his comments on the various players are sage, sane and said without subterfuge.

20 Years in Game Easy And Prosperous.

Baseball treated Speaker well, and he replied in kind. It was an easy prosperous twenty years he spent in the game. Endowed with more real genius than anybody who ever pulled on a glove—save Walter Johnson, Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth—Speaker half loafed through a score of years that will always live in the minds of baseball men. He had a great body on him, one that could stand the comparatively "easy" life he led; one that wouldn't be found wanting when, playing in within expectorating distances of second base, he would set out after a high fly miles over his head—and bring it down.

How close to 50 he was when he finally quit big league ball probably will never be known. Today he grows a bit more stocky and more preridential than managerial.

As one who could sock them, he loves sock in a ball player. Maybe that's why, I believe, he likes Dave Harris more than any player on the Washington team. He also leans toward Manush, except that he thinks that Heinie is a bad bunter, and toward Goose Goslin, except that he swears that Goose has no more idea of where the ball is going than does the ball.

Fails to Enthuse Over Kuhel, Weaver.

Tris, when he was managing Newark about four years ago, ran across Joe Cronin and several times was on the point of trying to pick him up, but every time he made up his mind, Joe would hit a slump that scared him away. Tris can't enthuse much over Joe Kuhel or Monte Weaver. He has a profound respect for Ossie Bluege's fielding and also for this kid Boken. He says he'd like to get hold of Cecil Travis for his Kansas City bunch, but Confederate Chattanooga would secede from Washington if Griffith let the lusty third base rookie go to Tris.

Tris was in a reminiscent mood last night. He said that the only pitcher he ever faced who always had him in trouble was Doc White. "I could hit Doc, just as hard as any other pitcher, but I lost all control of the ball and consequently couldn't make even an attempt at controlling where I wanted to hit it." He called Eddie Foster the greatest hit-and-run man the game has produced, and also remembered several occasions when he threw out Eddie at first base on grounders Eddie hit to center field—so close did he play in.

Tris used to take great delight in raising the hot Irish ire of Donie Bush, when Donie was with Boston. Tris, upon seeing Donie come to bat, would stroll in from center field and stand a yard or two behind second base. Donie was perpetually swearing that some day he'd knock them apple so far over Tris' head that it would make him look silly. He knocked many of them over Tris' head, but Tris' incomparable speed would enable him to go back and haul them down.

Finally one day Donie kept his word. Playing in Boston he socked one that was still going up after clearing Speaker. Tris chased the ball furiously and caught up to it as it bounded against the center field pole. Without looking he fired the ball with all his might toward third.

When Donie saw the ball clear his enemy's head, and watched the sight of the hefty Speaker dashing madly after the ball he was beside himself with joy. He rounded first base shrieking, "I told you so—you so and so" to the retreating Speaker. He rushed down toward second, still yelling at Tris, when lo, he was so taken up with thinking up new things to call Tris that he did a Buster Keaton sprawl over the bag. He got up and started for third, and was thrown out by 3 feet.

Ferrell Now Ready To Accept $15,000

Willis Hudlin, a mainstay of the pitching staff, notified the club from Hot Springs, Ark., that he was ready to sign and would report to the New Orleans training camp Monday. Club officials said he accepted the figure originally offered him, but they declined to say what it was.

Wes Ferrell, the Tribe's ace hurler, sent a telegram to the Cleveland News saying he was willing to sign for $15,000. This was his first break for his insistence upon $18,000. The club had offered $12,000.

CROWDER TO FACE TRIBE TODAY

Weaver, Whitehill to See Service in Big League Test.

Special to The Washington Post.

BILOXI, Miss., March 17.—Al Crowder, the venerable General of the Washington pitching staff, who won more games than any man in the American League last year, shakes the moth balls out of his good right arm tomorrow when the Nats meet Cleveland at New Orleans. Tomorrow's battle will be the first spring game of the intra-American League classification, as allowed under recently revised rules.

Crowder will pitch three innings. The American League's leading freshman pitcher of 1932, Monte Weaver, will pitch the last three innings of the game, the middle portion to be attended to by Earl Whitehill, Washington's new left-hander.

Roger Peckinpaugh, who used to be a Nat himself, has pulled a Connie Mack and allowed the boys to guess who is going to flip for the Tribe. Wes Ferrell, the Indian pitching staff is still a holdout. Mel Harder probably will be called on some time during the week-end.

Vines Is Opposed To Open Tourney

Pasadena, Calif., March 17 (A.P.).—Ellsworth Vines, jr., said today he had changed his opinion after a study of the national open tennis championship idea and is opposed to it. He said he would not participate in the tournament, which the United States Lawn Tennis Association is considering.

The national men's singles and doubles champion made the statement after a report had been received from Paris of the International Tennis Association's disapproval, but he said it had in no way affected his change of mind.

"When I first returned from Australia," Vines said, "I was inclined to believe the plan would work, but after a study, I am opposed to it and I will not compete."

Dave Harris Survives at 1st Base

By BOB CONSIDINE
(Post Staff Correspondent).

Biloxi, Miss., March 17.

Beat the Indians, 3-2, but then again,
Lost today, 11-2, to the Yannigan;
I don't see how the Helican.

WASHINGTON'S poor but honest secondarys hit and caught themselves a fine mess of baseball here this afternoon to accomplish the downfall of the New Orleans Pelicans, 11-2. The ease of the victory came as something of a surprise to the overflowing multitude of 92 fans, who had been informed by runners reaching this outpost that the Pels had scored a runaway victory over Cleveland this week, 3-2.

The decision not to use the regular line-up against the minor leaguers was made just before the game by Manager Joe Cronin, who suddenly relented after a hard week of working the big shots and excused them for the day—with a warning for them not to go out and get full of hominy grits before the Cleveland game in New Orleans tomorrow.

Dave Harris Rumored As First Baseman.

Some credence was given to the gossamery rumor that Dave Harris is "out" for first base by the elephantine one's play at that sack today. Harris was great. He didn't make an error. He fell on the hot grounders like a full back flopping on a loose football. He contributed one smearing double to the day's batting menu, and told Joe Kuhel tonight that he was sorry it had to be he that was going to beat out of a job. At that Dave is the best first baseman named Harris, Washington has had since Joe Harris, the eminent moon face of 1925.

Jack Russell pitched some pretty ball for Washington for five full innings, allowing the Pels an average of a hit an inning, but bearing down enough in the tight spots to keep all but one of the lads from getting home. Today at least, Russell looked plenty good enough to take a regular turn on the mound for the Nats.

Johnny Burrows In Hot Water.

Russell retired after the fifth inning in favor of little Johnny Burrows, the Phoenix sandlotter, after Washington massed its hitting strength and pumped a rain of singles and doubles off Lefty Lee, the heretofore successful Pel pitcher. The Nats' big inning started inoffensively enough when Johnny Kerr hit a terrific 20-foot fly to the first baseman, but Cecil Travis cracked a double to left, Heinie Manush pumped a beautiful single through shortstop, Sam Rice doubled through the diamond and Fred Schulte got a fluke triple to right when Bill Fleming lost the ball in the sun and started to make gestures like a man in a dark room warding off the chairs that want to bark his shins.

The game picked up interest with Burrows in the box for the kid was in hot water perpetually, although the crassly materialistic box score says the Pels got only two hits off him. Seven walks and a pardonable error by Bob Boken made the base paths look like Thirteenth and F at 4:30 o'clock, but only one Pel—Oulliber got home, so uniformly good was the brand of defensive play Burrows elders put forth. Nine men in all were left on base during Burrows' tenure in office.

Pestiferous Fan Put In Coaching Box.

There was a great deal of by-play. The game stopped in the eighth and ninth innings to see what could be done about a pestiferous fan with a voice like running slate pencils through your clenched teeth. He has been setting both spectators and players in jitters with his caterwauling since the grapefruit season opened. Today they yanked him out of the stands, put a cap on him and assigned him to the third base coaching line with the Pelicans at bat. He proved to be a little runt about 3½ feet high

Zorana Fails In Stretch Challenge

TROPICAL PARK, Fla., March 17 (A.P.).—A large St. Patrick's Day throng filled the stands here this afternoon and saw Von Sion bearing the all-white silks of F. A. Forden, race to a driving one-length victory over seven other sprinters in the 5½ furlongs of the St. Patrick's Day claiming purse.

J. V. Stewart's Singing Heart annexed the place position by a good two lengths from W. N. Adrians' Zorana, the choice. The winner paid $9.30 and ran the distance in the fast time of 1:05 flat.

Von Sion dominated the running for the entire trip and was nicely handled by Sammy Renick. This success made it two straight for Renick, who is riding better than ever at the current meeting. The boy urged Von Sion right to the front at the break and his mount had the speed to maintain a slight advantage over Singing Heart to the end, although doing his best as he passed the pay-off station. Zorana was in rather close quarters along the back stretch and was unable to make up ground when clear.

Long Shots Dominate Opening Dash.

Chiltenny found a field he could beat in the opening dash and drove home by a half length to pay his backers $45.10 for a $2 ticket. Long shots also accounted for the place and show positions, Wacket beating Energetic Boy by three lengths for the secondary portion. Jockey Decamillas swung Chiltenny into early command and steadied the gelding along, holding his field safe for speed to the end, although Wacket was threatening as they passed the judges. Supercharge broke very poorly and had no chance.

Even Play, $4.90 for $2 choice, was a handy winner by two lengths over Wise Mollie in the half-mile 2-year-old tussle. Aquatis took the show, an additional length and a half back. The winner, breaking from the inside, an advantageous spot for a fast beginning, rushed into a daylight lead. Wise Mollie moved up at the head of the stretch in a menacing manner and Even Play bore wide at the turn, but she drew away in the short run. Aquatis closed well to finish in the picture.

Mae Sweep Scores For Form Players.

Form players put over another winner when Mae Sweep just lasted to score by a head in the third event with Indiantown taking the place from Laura Gal by a half length. The winner, which returned $4.10, was on the head end all the way, but was tiring fast in the final sixteenth. Indiantown closed steadily. Laura Gal showed improved form to gain the show. Gritford was well played but performed listlessly.

Filly Triumphs at 11-1 After 34 Losing Races

New Orleans, La., March 17 (A.P.). After failing to win in 34 previous races, W. F. Lutz's Madame B. C. came through with her first victory today, defeating 11 other nonwinners in a mile race at the Fair Grounds.

Taking the track at the rise of the barrier, the 3-year-old daughter of Emissary, an 11-to-1 shot, finished the journey in 1:44 2-5, two lengths in front of E. R. Bradley's Back Kick with Mrs. J. Chesney's Renounce, a frequent second but never first, back in the show position.

Agua Caliente Handicap Shifted to April 2

Agua Caliente, Mex., March 17 (A.P.).—The race meeting resumed today after a 12-day lay-off, was extended to April 2 and on that day the Agua Caliente Handicap will be run for a $25,000 stake. Despite the fact that run-of-the-mill purses were cut from $500 to $400 during the suspension, all races were more than filled today and even bigger fields were entered for tomorrow.

WASHINGTON GROVE WINS.

Washington Grove scored a 47-44 victory over Frederick A. C. in an overtime game played on the winners' court yesterday. Haske and G. Walker starred for Washington Grove, while James and Trump were outstanding for the up-Staters.

DUB BOWLING LEADERS SAME

Kinnehan Rolls 583 Set to Maintain Advantage.

TOM KINNEHAN retained his position at the head of the list as the large field competing in the Dub Sweepstakes rolled through the second block last night at the King Pin Bowling Alleys. Kinnehan shot a set of 583, boosting his total for the ten games to 1,230.

But the Typothetae League man was not the only one in the top flight to retain his place, for three of the four men who trailed him last week in the succeeding positions remained on his heels last night.

Harry Dawson, runner-up at the conclusion of the first block last week, was still there, although five pins farther back from the leader, with a total of 1,195. In fifth position last week, Dave Cox moved up into a tie for third with Ed Hurd at 1,155.

Schwartz Moves Into Fifth Place.

Though not as brilliant as last week, when he massaged the lumber for a game of 171, Kinnehan bowled consistently to continue in the lead. His games were 120, 127, 99, 126 and 111.

Mike Trilli, who is only 135 pins behind the leader, rolled the high game last night, 154. There was some talk of his being a "sleeper," but all doubt concerning his eligibility was dispelled in the very next game, when he toppled 84 pins.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: TROPICAL PARK, MARCH 17.

Bill Bennings can point to only two winners today, but they both paid fair prices. Von Scion turned the trick at a $9.30 mutuel and Billy Champ stepped down at $8.90. However, I was there or thereabouts all along the line. Mike turned the pages for me tonight while I searched for some paying propositions for tomorrow. And after much deliberation (whatever that is), I am passing along eight possibilities—all bearing the Bennings Stamp of Approval.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—DORSAYS was scratched today probably with this sprint in view. Packed a lot of speed recently and should step home ahead of the faint hearted JUDGE PRIMROSE. TOMBEREAU is fast on occasions and may account for the show money.

SECOND RACE—BLACKMOCK has been knocking at the door and off that last place effort should take everything this field offers. NOSE IN shapes up as the best of the others. DONIE may be the sleeper and is a possibility.

THIRD RACE—SINGLE STAR gets in this test with light weight and may come rolling home. Performed in fair fashion at Havana and is reported in excellent condition. PRIMER and OUR SALLIE come to this after winning exhibitions and will be ready if the top one makes mistakes.

FOURTH RACE—ACTION is about ready to give the boys another jolt in the pocketbook. Gets in with an even 100 pounds and this way rigged will be ready to take it all. MOUNTAIN ELK appears to have an edge on BROADWAY LIGHTS for the place end.

FIFTH RACE—MY PURCHASE looks like a winning favorite from where I sit. WISE COUNT is on the improve as recent races reveal and will be the one to beat. BROWN WISDOM to hold the others safe.

SEVENTH RACE—LUCKY CARTER has done well hereabouts this winter and seems to have the spot in this. WAYWARD LAD and LADY DEAN to take care of the place and show.

EIGHTH RACE—GULLY JUMPER gets my call at this mile and a quarter. Has been carefully prepped for this one and won't miss, so they are telling me. PEACE LADY and MAJOR LANPHIER may figure in the battle.

CAPITAL CITY MIDGETS IN MEETING

10 Teams Are Seeking Berths; Peewees to Gather.

REPRESENTATIVES of midget division teams attended last night's meeting of the Capital City League. Teams represented were Eastern A. C., Robert Barnes; Virginia Bantams, John Ours; Ben Hundleys, R. J. Sliger; Cardinal Midgets, Joe Cronin Midgets, Anacostia A. C. and Northeast Rangers.

Rules for the 1933 campaign were outlined at the meeting. Players not attaining their seventeenth year before June 1 will be eligible to compete. Plans call for an early start this season, with a possibility that games may be played on Saturdays, although this was not definitely decided. The Midgets meet again next Friday night.

The board of directors of the Capital City League will meet Monday afternoon to plan ways and means of reducing expenses of the teams. The board is particularly anxious to discover a plan whereby franchise fees can be lowered in the younger divisions.

Managers of Peewee teams will meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock in room 313, District Building, while Insect teams will hold their meeting Monday night.

Triple Swim Program At Y. M. C. A. Tonight

Swimming teams of the Baltimore and Washington Y. M. C. A.'s will meet in the feature of the water program at the local "Y" pool tonight. All times established during the night will go down as pool records. The public is invited.

The "Y" Juniors and the Shoreham Juniors will meet in the opening event at 7:30 p. m. At 8:15, the Washington and Baltimore teams clash. The closing event, starting at 9:30, will pit the "Y" team against the "Y" instructors in a water polo match.

NORTHERN DIAMONDERS START.

Northern Athletic Club baseball candidates will drill tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at Hoover Playground, Delaware avenue and N street southwest. The following are requested to report: Dearborn, Healy, Schlorb, Fitzgerald, A. Taylor, E. Taylor, J. James, R. James, Jackson, Deavers, Horan, Haya and Francis.

BELT WORKS ON PORTNER PROGRAM

MATCHMAKER FRANKIE MANN last night announced the supporting card for the Gallagher-Tow bout, the piece de resistance of the weekly boxing show to be presented Tuesday night at Portner's Arena. The reformed blacksmith from Foggy Bottom and the Clarendon garageman will fight for the District heavyweight championship.

Jack Lamar, Cleveland featherweight, and Joe Raspi, of Baltimore, will open the show in a four-rounder. Lamar kayoed Soldier McDonald in 45 seconds of the first round three weeks ago at Portner's. He packs a real wallop and is a clever boxer but Raspi is tough and fast and should give the Ohioan a stiff battle.

Belt and Erman Battle.

Right into the lap of his manager, Jimmy Erwin, is where Gallagher expects to knock Tow. Though it be a few days late, the son of the ould sod expects to celebrate St. Patrick's Day in gala fashion. Winning over Tow, and winning by a knockout, will erase bitter memories of that night at Twin City Arena last summer when Tow punched Gallagher around the ring and onto the canvas to earn a unanimous decision.

Hard and consistent training has scrapped all surplus flesh on the big boy and he is in fine condition, mentally and physically.

Tow Reported in Top Shape.

Reports from Portner's, where Tow trains, say that the recent conqueror of Ed Prante, giant Philadelphian, will be ready for the best Gallagher has to offer. Tow is like a race horse at the barrier, anxious to get going. Confidence fairly oozes from every pore of the lad.

The bout originally was scheduled early in February, but postponed when Gallagher injured a hand in training. The pair were rematched, but it was postponed again when Gallagher suffered another training injury. The repeated delays and postponements nettled Tow, who accused Gallagher of evading him.

Now that the match is finally on, let's hope Tow can make good all the threats he hurled at Marty, because he is plunging headlong into ten rounds of trouble.

D. C. Handball Title Tourney Next Month

The 1933 District of Columbia A. A. U. four-wall handball championships will be held at the Y. M. C. A. April 8 to 15, inclusive, it was announced yesterday. Titles in doubles and singles will be decided.

Entry blanks have been prepared and are ready for distribution at the Y. M. C. A. The entry fee is 50 cents per man for each event. Entries will close Monday, April 3, with Ralph W. Foster at the "Y." All contestants must be registered in the A. A. U.

Gold medals will be awarded the winners and silver medals to the runners-up. Third place bronze medals will be awarded the victor in a special match between the defeated semi-finalists.

MAJESTICS START WORK.

Majestic Radio baseballers will stage their initial workout of the season tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock on the Rosedale Playground diamond. Ortel, Hook, Wingate, Nelson, Mahoney, Knight, Quigley, Payne, Spigel, Duffy, Jenkins, Duvall, McGeever and Hilleary are requested to report.

NEW SPIRIT FOUND BY 1933 RED SOX

"You can't take much for granted in baseball," McManus rightly said a few days ago. "But one thing is certain, 1933 is not going to be like other seasons, and if the Yankees, Athletics and Senators figure that they are going to climb to the top by piling up victories over the Red Sox, they are going to be sadly disappointed.

"I don't know exactly just how much we have this year, but I am sure that it is more than a year ago. The American League strength is going to be spread out this year. The race is going to be a dog fight and the Red Sox are going to be in it."

Meanwhile Eddie Collins is keeping his ear close to the baseball ground and, despite his team's new-found spirit, if any capable ball player is put on the market, some of Yawkey's money is going to buy him.

All of these various sentiments indicate that the American League is going to have an interesting existence this season.

NATS AGAIN BEAT NEW ORLEANS, 11-2

He heckled Burrows so long and loudly from the coaching line that the laconic Westerner asked him to get up at the bat. The old boy responded with alacrity, but Nick Altrock just couldn't let Burrows pitch to him. Nick went into the box and started to smoke them by him. He would have struck out without trouble had not Al Schacht, with a dozen balls in his hands and arms, snuck up behind the batter and dumped them all over him just as he was about to swing on one of Nick's flips. One of the balls hit the old gink in the schnozzle, but unfortunately not very hard.

Fielding features of the game were Heinie Manush's 50-yard run to haul down Oulliber's (hey, is this the only guy on the team?) fly to right center and Bob Boken's spectacular play in the fourth inning when he went behind Cecil Travis, stabbed a ball Cecil had missed and with a mighty heave got it over to Harris in time to throw (I give up) Oulliber out.

Hitting the Headpin

NICK TRONSKY and Ed White, a couple of duckpin dynamiters who have helped raise the standard of the Connecticut Blue Ribbon team to the lofty position it occupies in the bowling world, broke even with Washington bowlers last night at Convention Hall in a special match.

The New Englanders handily disposed of Eddie Espey and Whip Litchfield in doubles by a score of 1,252 to 1,166, but in the singles Paully Harrison ran away from Tronsky to win by a score of 637 to 558, and Espey found White an easy opponent and defeated him by a margin of 599 to 543.

Tronsky blasted the maples for a 685 total in the doubles to provide the punch that sent the Washington contenders

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S reappointment of Judge Eugene O. Sykes, of Mississippi, to the Federal Radio Commission, the Senate's confirmation, and his ultimate elevation to the chairmanship, are in line with other promising accomplishments of the new administration. Judge Sykes, the only surviving member of the original radio commission, is well qualified to be the connecting link between the old and new administrations.

Coming from a State where there were few, if any, radio stations at that time, the judge, although an eminent jurist, admittedly knew little or nothing about radio when he began. Today, be it said to his credit, Judge Sykes is one of the leading authorities of the country on radio administration. He is outspoken and never hesitates to take any action which he thinks is necessary.

Judge Sykes won his latest laurels at the International Radiotelegraph Conference at Madrid, and his reappointment by President Roosevelt comes just in time for the judge to exert a guiding hand in the important North American Conference soon to be held in Mexico.

This conference may bring about a reallocation of the entire broadcasting system of the United States and a man of Judge Sykes' long experience in radio will prove invaluable in looking out for the best interests of the United States.

The term of Judge Sykes is for six years, ending February 24, 1939.

LEOPOLD STOKOWSKI will direct the Philadelphia Orchestra in the air premiere of the Bacchanalian dances from LaMonaca's Hindu opera, "The Festival of Gauri," during the Philco concert to be broadcast over WJSV from 9:15 to 10 o'clock tonight.

A native of Italy, who has been a member of the Philadelphia Orchestra since 1910, LaMonaca is equally skilled as flutist, bandmaster and composer. He has written some fifty compositions, the most ambitious of which is the Hindu opera. The dances which Stokowski will play are scored for flutes and hautboys, and present a picture of the ceremonies before the statue of Gauri, Hindu goddess of love.

Three excerpts from Wagner's "Gotterdammerung"—"Siegfried's Rhine Journey," "Siegfried's Death" and "Brunnhilde's Immolation"—will conclude the presentation.

Mgr. James H. Ryan, rector of Catholic University, will be guest speaker on the program presented by the Washington Chamber of Commerce over WMAL at 6:45 o'clock tonight. He will be introduced by Thomas P. Littlepage, president of the organization.

Ed Wynn's new third network may be operating in Washington within ten days, LeRoy Mark, of Station WOL, said yesterday. Washington will be one of the six cities on the new chain, which is expected to expand rapidly.

According to Mr. Mark, talent will not be a problem for Ed Wynn.

"All the actors on Broadway are out of work," Mr. Mark said. "The show business is gone. Radio is their last stand. Ed Wynn knows them all."

REGARDING future plans, Mr. Wynn said he had 37 stations aligned in the South and 40 between Chicago and Seattle that he can secure upon call.

"One of the richest men in the world," Ed Wynn was quoted as saying in Broadcasting Magazine, "is interested in this third chain. He does not like Jews, and yet I am a Jew. It is the beginning of a Jews' business on a Christian basis."

Declaring his belief that the radio chains have cut seriously into newspapers and magazines, Mr. Wynn said:

"My chain will have very little, if any, advertising. What I am going to do is throw millions of dollars back to the newspapers and magazines. I have 27 accounts ready to start on my chain."

With reference to a paragraph in this column asserting that some of the high salaries radio people are supposed to receive are probably "stage money," Mr. Mark said:

"That is not true insofar as Ed Wynn's radio salary is concerned. His manager showed me a check for $5,000 for a single appearance before the microphone. As the manager flourished the check he remarked, 'Not so bad for 16 minutes' work.'"

A quartet of stars from the Metropolitan Opera Co. will be heard in a program of old favorite songs over WRC and WMAL at 11:30 o'clock tonight. Queena Mario, soprano; Gladys Swarthout, contralto; Mario Chamlee, tenor, and Frank Chapman, basso, will blend their voices in such old favorites as "Old Kentucky Home," "Swanee River" and "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes." Four of the melodic numbers from Flotow's "Martha" will be included in the program.

THERE was a comedy touch in the Army Band program the afternoon President Roosevelt sent his farm relief message to Congress. The band broadcast was interrupted so that listeners might hear the presidential message.

Following that the commentator at the Capitol said the Senate was about to pass the beer bill. Some one tipped off Capt. Stannard, and an instant later, when the program was switched back to the Washington Barracks, listeners were greeted by the Army Band's rendition of the "Maine Stein Song."

No restrictions on radio advertising were made in the beer and wine bill. No mention of radio was made in the text of the bill.

Radio stations have been auditioning for brewery accounts for the past few weeks and it is almost certain that the next week or two will see the blossoming of beer and wine advertising on radio programs.

A play-by-play description of the finals of the National Indoor Tennis Championships will be broadcast over WJSV direct from the Seventh Regiment Armory in New York City. The running account of the match will begin at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

THE canaries that supply musical background for Cheerio's morning programs almost failed to deliver their usual stint at a recent broadcast when Dickey didn't appear for the broadcast.

Elizabeth Freeman, owner of the birds, took the cages from her apartment as usual and proceeded by taxicab to the studios. When she hung the cages upon their customary hooks near the microphone and removed the coverings, she started in amazement—Dickey wasn't there! Blue Boy chirruped excitedly. Miss Freeman searched high and low. Finally she hailed a cab and hurried to her apartment. As she opened the door, a hopping canary met her. It was Dickey! She hurried to the studio and arrived in time to allow Dickey to sing his usual anthem!

$500,000 in Bills Burn In Bank's Incinerator

Oklahoma City, March 17 (A.P.).—A half million dollars in scrip went up in smoke today in the First National Bank incinerator. There were three "mourners," the scrip bank trustees, whose work ended with the bank holiday's close.

TOUR WILL BE MADE FOR ABINGDON FUNDS

Association Gives $300 to Preserve Birthplace of Nellie Custis.

To raise additional funds for the preservation of the ruins of Abingdon, birthplace of Nellie Custis, the Washington branch of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities, will conduct a personal tour of historically interesting points in Virginia. The trip is tentatively planned for May 16.

An appropriation of $300 to preserve the birthplace of Nellie Custis, the adopted daughter of George Washington and the granddaughter of his wife, Martha Washington, has been turned over to the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks by the association, it was disclosed yesterday at a meeting of the organization in the Willard Hotel.

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of public parks, has assured the organization that the money will be used to preserve Abingdon.

The Washington branch undertook to preserve the ruins when it was learned that the road and park maintenance program for the Mount Vernon Memorial highway does not provide for the preservation of Abingdon.

The spot is along the Potomac about 3 miles above Alexandria. The actual care of the old building will come under the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks.

Tooth Splinter Hits Dentist in Eye.

SAMUEL M. BOYD, Attorney, Shoreham Building.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE DISTRICT of Columbia, holding an Equity Court. George B. Reynolds, 1218 Pennsylvania street southeast, plaintiff, vs. Minnie R. Tenuille, 128 West 123rd street, New York, defendant. Equity No. 44,677. Order of publication. The object of this suit is to vest in the plaintiff, George B. Tenuille, sole and absolute fee simple title to and ownership of the real estate in the District of Columbia, known as lot numbered 43, in J. Irving Bealmear's subdivision in square numbered 1007, as per plat recorded in liber No. 37, in folio 199, of the records of the office of the Surveyor for the District of Columbia, with improvements upon said real estate situated; and to divest the defendant, Minnie R. Tenuille, of any and all right, title and interest which she has in said real estate, upon the ground that by her desertion of the plaintiff, resulting in absolute divorce obtained by him, the said defendant has forfeited all her rights as joint tenant in said real estate. On motion of the plaintiff it is this 9th day of March, 1933, ordered that the defendant cause her appearance to be entered herein on or before the fortieth day, exclusive of Sundays and legal holidays, occurring after the day of the first publication of this order, otherwise the cause will be proceeded with as in case of default. And it is further ordered that the publication in the Washington Law Reporter and The Washington Post once a week for three successive weeks. By the Court: JOSEPH C. McKENNEY, Chief Justice. (Seal.) Test: FRANK E. CUNNINGHAM, Clerk. By C. E. STEWART, JR., Assistant Clerk.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE NEW RADIO STARS.

("President Roosevelt is to make regular radio addresses. Chancellor Hitler of Germany also plans an American broadcast."—News item.)

ARE you weary of the features
Old and honored on the air?
Do you often think some new ones
Would be eminently fair?
Then cheer up—a change is coming—
And it's not a network bluff—
Soon the rulers of the nations
Through the mike will do their stuff.

II.

If you're sick of Eddie Cantor
And you're bored by Mister Wynn,
There's no need to sit there doxing
And just take it on the chin;
If you do not care for songsters
And all orchestras seem sour,
Turn the dial to the feature
That is called "The Rulers' Hour!"

III.

Take a back seat, oh, you actors,
On the programs orthodox
Helping boost the sales of ciggies,
Hair oil, tooth pastes, soap and sox!
Once you may have been the leaders
On the air, as shown by facts,
But you now can't hold a candle
To the Big Dictator acts.

IV.

Rudy Vallee, Lowell Thomas,
Gracie Allen, Dudley (Bride)
Drop your crooning and your chatter
And discreetly stand aside!
Don't you hear the boys announcing,
"Franklin Roosevelt's Big Review?"—
It is now a network feature
And it's peppy, smart and new.

V.

Who would rather hear a crooner
Than to get the facts on beer?
Who would rather have a comic
Than the President appear?
Who would listen to Lombardo,
Birney, Whiteman, Myrte or Marge
When the President informs us
On what's doing by and large?

VI.

Pull your necks in, you performers,
For you may be on the spot;
Adolf Hitler, too, has signed up
For a program new and hot;
Baron Pearl and Brother "Sharlie"
Well may see their future wrecked,
For old Adolf, so they tell us,
Has a better dialect.

VII.

Advertisers, O, get busy
For there's more than idle hope
Mussolini could be signed up
To promote the sale of soap;
Kemal Pasha, Carol, Gandhi—
What a grand array of stars
On a program calculated
To sell good five-cent cigars;

VIII

How it whips imagination
To consider how the mike
May be filled with daily broadcasts
By the kings and queens alike!
How some Old World revolution
May come to you on the air
Through the courtesy of Glotzbaum, Schmalz & Rothstein's Underwear!

THE BANK SITUATION MADE CLEAR.

As we understand it, if any bank proceeds too recklessly from now on, anybody can make it pull over to the curb and then demand, "Where's your operator's license?"

THE EXCEPTION.

Huey Long, oh, Huey Long—

Hooray for the Red, White and Brew!

Doctor Voluntarily Contracts Disease

Act Is to Further Work on Rabbit Fever, or Tularemia.

In order to further his work on tularemia, or rabbit fever, at the National Institute of Health, Dr. Edward Francis voluntarily undergoes a series of mild attacks of the disease.

He does not contract the ailment so that he may study its effect on himself, but submits to the mild attacks in order to avoid the probability of a severe attack which would incapacitate him for months from his work.

The attacks, coming on the heels of each other, are of a mild nature because of a partial immunization developed in the blood which prevents the condition of collapse which would occur in the disease ordinarily.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY CONTEST DEVELOPS INTO FREE-FOR-ALL

Many Are Suggested but Few Have Any Chance of Appointment.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

The campaign for the job of United States district attorney, to fill the vacancy which will be created by the retirement of Leo A. Rover, has developed into something of a free-for-all, with many persons seeking the job and most of them having no chance of appointment.

John Bramhall has been advanced as a candidate. Lucien Van Doren is presented by his friends as the next district attorney. The name of Judge John McMahon, of the Police Court, also has been advanced for consideration, as have the names of David A. Hart, recognized as one of the most able assistant district attorneys; Renah Camaller, whose friends are making a determined drive; H. Mason Welch, John E. Laskey, former District attorney; Levi David, G. Sasscer and Norman Landreau.

Cusick's Age Is Factor.

Ralph A. Cusick has been suggested. Veterans' organizations are urging his appointment. It has been said that Mr. Cusick is too young. His sponsors reply that if he were old enough to go to France to fight in war 15 years ago, he is not too young now to be named district attorney. His age may stop his appointment, but there is no question about his legal ability.

David Pine, another lawyer, is reported to be under consideration for the job. Mr. Pine also is said to be a candidate for corporation counsel of the District, a job now held by William W. Bride. Bolitha Laws also is seeking the job of district attorney, it is reported, as are several others.

Costello Not a Candidate.

The name of Norman B. Landreau also has been advanced. But Mr. Landreau's appointment is not expected, because he is a law partner of John P. Costello, Democratic national committeeman of the District. Mr. Costello undoubtedly will have something to say about who is appointed to this or that job in the District, and he already has declared himself as not being a candidate for any job and that declaration carries along those so closely and publicly associated with him.

Mrs. Roosevelt to Attend Children's Play Today

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will make her first appearance as a Washington theatergoer when she attends the performance of "Pinnochio" at the National Theater this morning by the Children's Theater company of New York. She will entertain a box party of youngsters, among them the two older children of Stephen T. Early, one of President Roosevelt's secretaries.

Mrs. Roosevelt is a member of the advisory board of the Children's Theater, which presents a children's play in Washington each month. Mrs. Frederic A. Delano, aunt of President Roosevelt, heads the list of patronesses for the performance of "Pinnochio."

Mrs. Allen Treadway Loses Diamond Ring

A diamond ring valued at $800 was lost by Mrs. Sylvia Treadway, wife of Representative Allen T. Treadway (Massachusetts), while she was attending a downtown theater on Thursday night, Representative Treadway reported to police yesterday.

The ring was set with one large diamond and 18 chip diamonds, police were told. A search of the theater failed to recover the ring.

Court Quiz on Tea Room Zoning Plaint Is Today

A hearing is scheduled in Police Court today on the right of Miss Elizabeth Williams to operate the Yellow Feather tea room on Phelps place, near Bancroft place, in a residential area in violation of District zoning regulations.

Capt. Hugh P. Oram, executive officer of the zoning commission, has ordered the tea room closed. Miss Williams, who started by serving only students at Holton Arms School, contends she serves only a very exclusive clientele.

Miss Taggart Indorsed As D. C. Juvenile Judge

The Glover Park Citizens Association, meeting last night at the Home Industrial School, indorsed Miss Etta Taggart, of Georgetown, for judge of the Juvenile Court.

Miss Taggart, an attorney, has been prominently identified in numerous civic affairs of Washington.

DISTRICT DELEGATE IS PROPOSED IN BILL

McLeod Measure in House Would Give Territorial Rights to Area.

The District would be given a delegate in the House, with the same privileges now accorded delegates from the Territories, under a bill introduced yesterday by Representative Clarence J. McLeod (Republican), Michigan, and referred to the Judiciary Committee.

The delegate, who would have full rights of debate but could not vote, would be elected by the Commissioners every two years. He would have to be 25 years old, a resident of the District for ten years, and possess the same qualifications now required of Commissioners.

A proposed amendment to the Constitution, giving District residents the right to elect representatives to both houses, sponsored by Senator Arthur Capper, is pending before the Senate District Committee.

A. C. Smith Wins Backing for Office

Arthur Clarendon Smith, president of the Federation of Business Men's Associations, was indorsed by the Wisconsin Avenue and Macomb Street Business Men's Association last night for appointment as District Commissioner.

The association also indorsed E. Roy Lewis and Maj. R. S. Hudgins for members of the Board of Assessors.

In a brief statement to the press today, Harry Cahn, merchant and vice president of the Central Business Men's Association, said:

"While I am not tempted in the least to belittle the competition of the other men in the race for popularity in the recommendation for District Commissioner to President Roosevelt, I am certain that the choice of the people for District Commissioner is Arthur Clarendon Smith, and that if the wishes of the city at large, whose destinies will to a great degree be with the newly appointed Commissioners, are granted, President Roosevelt will seriously consider his appointment."

Medals Are Presented To 19 Bakery Drivers

Nineteen out of 33 driver-salesmen for the Havenner Bakery, 476 C street northwest, yesterday were presented with medals for operating their trucks for all of 1932 without a chargeable accident. Inspector B. A. Lamb, of the police department traffic bureau, made the awards.

The presentation of such medals is the work of the safety bureau of the Continental Baking Co. Each plant has a safety committee which receives reports on accidents and observes records of drivers.

John Bardroff Is Colonel On Mississippi's Staff

It's Col. John T. Bardroff now.

The Assistant District Tax Assessor yesterday received a certificate from the Governor of Mississippi appointing him to the rank in return for Mr. Bardroff's hospitality as a member of the governor's escorting committee during the Presidential inauguration.

TRAFFIC TOLL TO DATE.

The right kind of cooperation has no bounds. If policemen and motorists will cooperate the accident toll can be brought to a minimum. Both have to work according to their positions and if policemen will act a little less like tyrants and strive to help the motorists rather than dictate to them, and motorists will try to obey the traffic regulations and not become aroused when they are ridiculed for making a mistep, a good deal of this right kind of cooperation can be achieved.

Deaths	22	13
Injuries	741	729
Accidents	1,660	1,678

6 REPUBLICANS PUT IN HOUSE D. C. GROUP

Three New Members of Congress to Deal With Municipal Affairs.

Six House Republicans, three of them new members of Congress, yesterday were assigned to the House District Committee by House Republican Leader Bertrand H. Snell, completing the membership of the body.

Representatives Gale H. Stalker and James L. Whitley, both of New York, were reassigned to the committee, and Representative Gardner R. Withrow, of Wisconsin, a member of the last Congress, was named to serve with them.

"Baby" members of Congress assigned to the local group are Michael J. Muldowney, of Pennsylvania, former member of the municipal council of the City of Pittsburgh; Representative Everett M. Dirksen, Illinois Legionnaire, and Representative George Burnham, of California, former San Diego civic worker, merchant, banker, realtor.

House Burglar Obtains $159 in Family Caches

Emery Is Indorsed For Commissioner

Society of Natives Also Supports Miss Taggart for Juvenile Bench.

Fred A. Emery, past president of the Society of Natives of the District was unanimously supported for District Commissioner at the spring meeting of the civic organization at the Washington Club last night.

The society also recommended Miss Eita Taggart, attorney, for the judgeship in the District Juvenile Court. J. F. Duhamel, addressed the organization on the "Penny Post." In his talk Mr. Duhamel sketched the progress in organization of the local postoffice system.

In 1800 when the system was inaugurated, a charge of 2 cents was made for the delivery of a letter from the postoffice to a Washington home. Later the charge was reduced to 1 cent and in 1863 the present system was inaugurated. Dr. Clarence A. Weaver, president of the organization, presided at the meeting, which was followed by refreshments and entertainment.

COURT TO BE ASKED TO RULE ON BARRING OF 2 SCHOOL PUPILS

Entz Is Preparing to File His Claims in Dispute Over Vaccination.

The District Juvenile Court will be asked to decide whether two children barred from school because a vaccination which did not "take" will have to be revaccinated before they are allowed to reenter school.

The case has been brought to the court following the expulsion on Thursday of David Entz, 6, and Barbara Entz, 8, from the Thomson School because of alleged failure to show proper vaccination certificates.

Point to School Law.

School authorities contend their action was taken in compliance with a District school law which provides that pupils be restrained from attending school unless they have been duly vaccinated and a certificate issued by medical inspectors.

On the other hand, the father of the children, H. H. Entz, of 1224 Thirteenth street northwest, a salesman, contends that whether or not the vaccination "takes" he has complied with the law by having the children vaccinated by a reputable physician.

Turned Back Again.

After calling reporters and news photographers, the father made a spectacular effort to have his children admitted to the school Thursday afternoon, but they were turned back by guards posted at the school door by school authorities. The children likewise were refused entrance to the school yesterday and returned to their home.

Robert L. Haycock, assistant superintendent of schools, said last night the children would be barred until the court has handed down a decision.

Information on the case was filed with the court by school authorities yesterday.

Gold Hoarders Known; Return Limit Expires

Persons still hoarding gold may find themselves in embarrassing positions for failing to return it to the banks. The time limit for the returning of the gold expired when the banks closed their business day yesterday.

The Federal Reserve Banks have the names of all persons who withdrew gold during the two-year period prior to March 6, hence they know who failed to return their hoardings. What action will be taken remains to be decided.

Capital Graduate Gets Degree Today

Donald Charles, 23, graduate of the McKinley High School four years ago, will be graduated today with a class of 200 from the Agricultural School of Ohio State University, Columbus.

He will continue his studies in agriculture this fall at the University of Wisconsin on a $750 scholarship he won recently in a national dairy contest at Detroit, Mich.

Previous to his departure for Ohio, Mr. Charles lived at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Hawthorne, of 4214 Eighth street northwest. His parents, who lived in Washington, are dead. Mr. Charles was born in China.

Geographic Society Sees Color of National Parks

Outstanding among Mr. Clatworthy's pictures were those showing the beauty spots of one of the United States' newest national playgrounds, the Grand Tetons Park, established four years ago. The Grand Tetons are a range of mountains that dominate the Jackson Hole region. The range rises almost perpendicularly to from seven to eight thousand feet above the floor of the valley. The park lies but a few miles south of Yellowstone.

Capital Honors St. Patrick By Mass, Feast and Dance

St. Patrick strode the streets of the world yesterday and last night, and Irishmen everywhere gathered in church, home and banquet hall to honor Erin's patron saint.

"Twas the day when the shillalah was figuratively laid aside, the shamrock was plucked at dawn and Irishmen in Washington joined their folk at home and abroad in both solemn and festive observance.

The largest formal celebration here was that of the local group of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, beginning the day with attendance at a special mass at St. Patrick's Church and ending with a banquet and dance at the Mayflower Hotel.

At the banquet the Hibernians heard the Rev. John K. Cartwright, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's, tell of the deep fervor of the Irish homeland during the last Eucharistic Congress.

Ireland, the nation, declared Father Cartwright, stands on the threshold of a new epoch in its history. He cited the national independence of Ireland, but expressed a hope that the Emerald Isle nation would progress still further within the century.

Among other St. Patrick's Day events was the Round Table Club luncheon at the University Club, numerous card parties and banquets of various organizations, Irish and non-Irish, and many gatherings in churches and homes.

Tonight the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick will gather at the Mayflower Hotel for their annual banquet and dance in honor of the patron saint of Ireland.

Tuberculosis Film Is Previewed Here

Officials of Association See Reels to Be Used for April Campaign.

Officials and guests of the District of Columbia Tuberculosis Association last night witnessed a preview of the new motion picture to be released throughout the Nation in connection with the early diagnosis campaign of the organization during April. The film was shown at the Paramount Sound News Studios.

The title of the film is "Prof. Ichabod Buggs, or the Life Story of T. B. by Himself." It is an animated drawing film of the original tuberculosis germ coming to life under the microscope and switches to the silver screen where the realistic processes of the dread plague are developed.

The inner defense mechanism of the body when assailed by the disease germs are portrayed in the picture with a showing of how later on the defenses may be broken down or fortified.

Highway Project Awards Are Let

Four Washington Firms Receive Sewer and Other Contracts.

A contract for construction of cement roadways went to Warren P. Breniser Co., of Washington, on its low bid of $158,544. Corson & Gruman Co., of Washington, obtained the job of constructing cement alleys on a low bid of $34,492.

William A. Pate, of Washington, was given a contract to build the Ninth street replacement sewer between I street and the Washington Channel in the Southwest. The bid was $4,167.92.

5-CENT FARE WAITS ACTUAL MERGER OF TROLLEY CONCERNS

The street railways still intend to await the actual merger of their properties before trying any zone fare or short-haul plan, it was indicated yesterday after the Public Utilities Commission had suggested an experimental 5-cent fare on certain short lines.

District officials believe, however, that once the consolidation is effected that the new company will be willing to experiment in order to increase patronage.

John H. Hanna, president of the Capital Traction Co., has already revealed that he has been giving serious study to zone fares, and he has intimated that the proposals will be given serious consideration after the merger.

People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech, who last fall made a formal proposal that 5 and 10 cent fare zones be adopted in order to encourage greater use of the street cars for short hauls, said yesterday that he favored a trial of the plan advanced by Vice Chairman Riley E. Elgen or any similar scheme which would provide short hauls at a lower cost than the present fare.

The commission has given no indication that it will press its proposal at this time, but it probably will reopen the matter after the two companies are consolidated.

While no definite merger draft has been drawn up by the negotiating committee of the two railways, Mr. Hanna has informed the commission that progress is being made and that he hopes to see the merger effected before the end of this year.

ANOTHER MESSAGE TO NEWSPAPER EDITORS

LET'S PRINT SOME GOOD NEWS!

How can you conscientiously accept advertisers' money for printing advertisements designed to get business, and at the same time use the front page of the same newspapers for depressing stories that practically tell the public "don't buy now"? Let's print some good news. Let's tell stories of people who buy, who spend money, who have confidence and courage.

For instance, why not tell the public about the thousands of people who packed and jammed the 20,000 sq. ft. of space in The Hecht Co.'s Basement Store all day yesterday? Why don't you say something about the several hundred extra people whom we put to work? Why didn't you send your reporters around to see the crowds, crowds that were so large that we had to get city policemen to hold them back?

Those crowds were here. They pushed their way in, but they were happy, spending, buying crowds . . . who didn't at all mind a little waiting or a little shoving. Isnt it good news when a store can draw this kind of a response in these days?

Congratulations
